Jury Completed To Hear Manley Insanity Plea

12 MEN CHOSEN DURING ALL-DAY SESSION OF COURT

Process Rendered Tedious by Reading of Lists of Stockholders and Depositors of Bank Chain.

EIGHT PANELS ARE EXHAUSTED

Judge Howard Qualifies as Trial Jurist in Case of Defunct Bankers' Trust Head.

Selection of a jury to decide the sanity of W. D. Manley, president of the defunct Bankers' Trust company, was completed late Tuesday afternoon in Judge G. H. Howard's division of Fulton superior court.

The 12 men were chosen only after names of 108 jurors had been called, more than 80 of whom were examined by attorneys for the state and for the defense.

Business of empanelling the trial jury proceeded tediously, lasting throughout Tuesday. It was necessary to eliminate all persons connected with Manley's affairs, which involved the reading of lists of hundreds of depositors in the Farmers and Traders bank, as well as the names of hundreds of prosecuting banks to make sure no juror had any connection or interest either in the prosecution or defense of the indicted financier. Several thousand names were submitted to the prospective jurors—those of depositors and stockholders in the suspended bank and similar names in connection with 110 banks throughout Georgia which contributed to a fund to prosecute Manley.

Personnel of Jury

The jury selected is composed of the following:

Oscar Kutscher, 115 Elbert street.

George Braungart, 551 Elmwood street.

John Cunningham, 53 Colquitt avenue.

Albert P. Wood, 98 Waverly way.

P. L. Fretwell, 191 East Pine street.

W. A. Spell, employee of the A. B. & A. railroad.

Henry A. Lawrence, 685 Westminster drive.

G. P. Hopkins, 199 Plum street.

R. C. Lucie, 39 Owen street.

C. E. Brewer, vice president of the Atlanta Title and Trust company, 180 South Gordon street.

H. L. Hunter, 699 Gordon street.

Love A. Carroway, 120 East Morris avenue.

Eight panels were exhausted in the selection of the jury, the state taking 10 strikes, its allotted number allowed by law, while defense counsel took 19 strikes. Due to the fact that they were either stockholders in the Farmers and Traders bank, were related to stockholders, were related to depositors, or were copartners in the bank, 22 of the veniremen were disqualified. Thirty-one jurors were off for cause, informing the court that they had either formed an opinion in

Manikin Head Of Choir Singer Exhibited to Jury

Mrs. Hall Sits With Averted Face as Doctor Reenacts Slaying of Pair.

TESTIMONY BASED ON RECENT AUTOPSY

All Organs Used in Singing Had Been Cut Out, Schultze Says on Stand.

BY FRANK GETTY.

Somerset County Courthouse, Somerville, N. J., November 9.—While Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall sat with lowered head and averted gaze, fumbling nervously at her handbag, a manikin head of Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, the woman of whose murder she is accused, was exhibited to an intent jury and an excited courtroom jammed with spectators Tuesday afternoon.

Using the plaster of paris effigy, Dr. Otto H. Schultze, medical assistant to District Attorney Banton, of New York city, reenacted the murder as he believed it had been committed, basing his conclusions on a recent autopsy.

The physician's testimony came as a dramatic climax to a day that had been given over almost entirely to fruitless efforts on the part of the defense to shake the testimony of fingerprint experts which incriminated Willie Stevens, the widow's brother.

With only an hour remaining for conclusion of the session, Senator Simpson, the prosecutor, called Dr. Schultze to the stand, and from a pasteboard box, produced with a flourish of a conjurer performing a feat of legerdemain, a head made of plaster of paris, conforming in measurements to that of the choir singer who was slain with her pastor sweetheart, Dr. Edward Wheeler Hall, at Phillips farm, four years ago.

Head Placed on Stand.

The head was placed upon the witness stand, beneath the glare of a powerful light. Its unseeing eyes were toward the jury. Its back was toward the three defendants.

Mrs. Hall's firm chin dropped to her breast. "Willie" and Henry Stevens stared fixedly at the weird object.

Defense counsel shifted nervously about, and Senator Simpson, ringmaster of the performance, licked his lips and began.

"Had the tongue been cut out?" demanded the prosecutor, loudly, glancing over towards the defendants, who appeared to be retaining their composure with their accustomed determination.

"The tongue, the larynx and part of the wind-pipe were missing," replied Dr. Schultze.

All Vocal Organs.

"Those are the organs used in singing," persisted Simpson.

"Yes," said the witness.

The prosecutor began by qualifying his witness as an expert. Dr. Schultze testified he had performed

Resentment of Mell M. Gore, condemned Buckhead barber, who was given a short respite in a decision of the supreme court, which ordered the lower court to resent him to death, will be made by Judge John D. Humphries as soon as the order of the higher court reaches him, he said Tuesday night.

It is probable that the order will be received by the Fulton superior court judge today and in that event it is probable that a new date will be fixed at once for Gore's electrocution for the murder of W. H. Cheek, Peachtree road grocer. The date set for the electrocution was next Saturday, but this will now be extended for a short period.

A short respite was given Gore when the supreme court handed down a ruling requiring the judge of the Fulton superior court to resent him. This ruling means that Gore will not be executed Saturday, the date on which Governor Walker's 60-day reprieve expires.

Under the ruling, Judge Humphries must resent Gore not less than ten days and not more than twenty days from the day the ruling was issued. The court issued a mandamus absolute requiring the judge to resent Gore and the court stated that the requirement to file a bill of exceptions as well as liability for costs could be avoided if the judge fixes a new date for the execution.

The supreme court took this action under a statute passed in 1924. Judge Richard B. Russell wrote the opinion and held that when the date for an execution has passed and for any reason has not been executed it is the duty of the trial judge to fix a new date for the execution.

Attorney Reuben Garland, who represents Gore, carried his fight for Gore's life to the supreme court two months ago and won a ruling from Governor Walker issued a respite of 60 days, considerable doubt was expressed by attorneys as to whether or not Gore could have been legally executed Saturday at the expiration of the respite in view of the existing supersedeas.

The new ruling simply means, in effect, that Gore will get several more weeks of life prior to his execution. In no way changes the sentence and unless Governor Clifford Walker grants commutation he will be executed on the new date to be fixed by the trial judge.

Second Frigid Wave Headed Toward City

Near-Freezing Temperature Predicted for Early This Morning.

Break northwest winds that sent the temperature dropping steadily in Atlanta Tuesday afternoon and night are bearing on their wings the second cold wave of the season, scheduled to result in near-freezing weather for the city and vicinity this morning, according to C. F. von Herrmann's official forecast from the local weather bureau.

Fair weather and temperatures ranging from a low of 34 degrees this morning to 55 degrees about noon today were predicted to follow in the wake of the rain that measured 1.12 inches during the past 24 hours. The possibility of the cold spell continuing until it reached frost by Thursday morning was suggested by Mr.

STATES WARNED U. S. WILL INSIST ON ROAD REPAIRS

Jardine Recalls Obligation Undertaken To Keep Up Highways Constructed by Federal Aid.

RECKLESS DRIVING CAUSES PROTEST

Need for Uniform Markers and Signs Also Stressed at Meeting by Agriculture Secretary.

Pinehurst, N. C., November 9.—(AP) Pious for creation of sentiment against reckless driving on the highways of the nation, regulation of interstate traffic and better maintenance of roads featured today's session of the twelfth annual meeting of the American Association of State Highway Officials.

William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture, under whose supervision federal aid road funds are allotted and spent told the officials that the goal was $80,000 miles of federal aid roads in 1927.

The secretary also warned the officials that there must be a greater improvement in maintenance of all roads and especially federal aid roads, an obligation the federal law places upon state highway departments, adding that "failure to make proper provision for the repair of roads in which large sums of public money has been invested is the sheerest economic folly."

Urges Uniform Signs.

The secretary also urged the uniform numbering of highways and placing of uniform signs. These numbers and signs, he said, "are needed to develop the maximum degree of service and safety in their use by the ever increasing public traffic. From the federal point of view," he added, "the early improvement of these roads is of the greatest importance and should have your full support in an effort when these designated routes shall have been ratified by the association."

The secretary reviewed the road situation for the last decade, recalling the increase in motor vehicles since 1916, from 1,000,000 to 2,000,000 in the country, the increase in road-building and maintenance.

Frank Page, North Carolina highway commissioner, who retired as president of the organization of officials in his annual address stressed the necessity for building roads for the future, and he said that the highway department of the state must be the consideration. "Heretofore," said Mr. Page, "the character of the vehicle has determined the type of road to be constructed. Now long shall we conform to such a program?"

Mr. Page intimated that the 30,000 pound truck should not force the country to pay huge sums for surfacing roads for it to run over.

Opposes Reckless Driving.

He made a strong plea for a sentiment against reckless driving and regulation of interstate traffic so that punishment can be imposed. Fifteen per cent of all traffic, according to the secretary, is in interstate travel from state to state or from one locality to another.

Governor Angus W. McLean, of North Carolina, in a brief address welcoming the delegates to the state. He gave Mr. Page, who has been chairman of the state highway commission ever since the North Carolina highway program was put into effect, entire credit for putting the state on the map with "one of the best highway systems in the country," a system which he described as "a near-perpetual motion as is possible to get."

He called attention to the fact that North Carolina roads are built with out property tax and entirely with gasoline and automobile license taxes. The governor said the road system in the state is entirely divorced from politics.

GEORGIA INVOLVED IN ROUTE DISPUTE.

Lexington, Ky., November 9.—(AP) The question of retaining the routing of U. S. highway No. 25—the eastern Florida highway—through Georgia to Florida, is to be settled by the executive committee of the American Association of State Highway Officials now in session at Pinehurst, N. C. The outcome is in doubt, according to information received this morning by C. Frank Dunn, manager, Lexington Automobile club.

Alabama, Georgia and Indiana have combined to oppose U. S. highway No. 25, and have voted for the original routing of U. S. 41 over the Florida route. U. S. 25 takes the route of the "Dixie Bus Line" from Chicago through Evansville and Hopkinsville to Nashville, and Hopkinsville has a representative at the meeting working for the latter route, the advice state.

Governor Fields arrived today and hastened into the room where the executive committee was in session.

Branding as an affront and an act of insubordination resolutions passed recently by the Atlanta Public School Teachers' association regarding the operation of schools 12 months in the year, W. D. Hoffman, chairman of the current expenditures committee of the board, Monday attacked the paper.

He declared he wished the association to know that he opposed such tactics, which he declared are tantamount to an effort to dictate the educational policy of the city.

The resolutions were filed when Mr. Hoffman failed to ask that any action be taken on them, but insisted on condemning them in his address.

The resolutions ask among other things that teachers of the system be paid a pay rate share of their salaries for additional summer teaching, which is proposed under the "7-11-14" A. Sutton plan to run schools 12 months each year.

Mr. Sutton, in outlining the program to the board of education, stated that teachers would be asked to teach about one summer in five. He failed to say anything concerning additional compensation. This—if resolution of the association are given the interpretation which Mr. Hoffman placed on them—aroused the ire of Atlanta teachers and precipitated the controversy.

"These resolutions are the worst piece of insolence I have ever seen," Mr. Hoffman declared in his attack. "We worked hard to get money to pay the salaries of these very people when a financial crisis occurred in the board, and now they hit us with this piece of effrontery. They get three months' vacation every year now, and that is too much for anybody. I didn't get any this year."

"I regard this as a slap at the board of education and the administrative department of the schools, and resent it. The teachers assume the attitude that they are running Atlanta's school system instead of the board."

Mr. Hoffman was applauded by members of the board and several who composed a gallery to "listen in" on the proceedings of the meeting.

Text of Resolution.

The resolution adopted by the teachers and which drew down the ire of the board of education follows:

"Whereas, It has been announced that the board of education and the superintendent of schools are considering the operation of the schools of Atlanta throughout the year; and

"Whereas, There is some uncertainty

As the North Georgia Methodist conference today begins its annual sitting at Wesley Memorial church, a class of 15 young men will appear, asking for admittance on trial. Report will be made later in the week as to their acceptance.

This class of ministers constitutes one of the largest to have applied for admittance in a good many years. They come from different sections of the conference territory, and each one has the approval of his own quarterly conference and the recommendation of his district conference.

Members of the group of applicants are A. E. Barton, S. H. Dixon, J. K. Dean, G. B. Henderson, R. I. Johnson, W. P. Lumsford, N. C. McPherson, Jr., R. R. Moody, B. M. Montgomery, F. J. Pippin, G. G. Ramsey, E. D. Rudisill, J. B. Smith, A. W. Williams and R. W. Stone. The entire group went before the committee on applications, Tuesday and underwent tests as to their qualifications. Should they pass all tests and be recommended by the committee, they will be admitted on trial for one year, and assigned work and studies under the supervision of a presiding elder.

First Session Held.

The first gathering of the conference members was held Tuesday night at Wesley Memorial church, when the 27th biennial read his annual report. Routine business of the association was given attention, and a good number of new members were admitted to membership into the organization, the purpose of which is to give instant help to distressed families of members who die.

Nicholas Petresco To Attend All Interviews in Future—Governor Ross Joins Royal Party.

Queen Marie's Train, En Route to Denver, November 9.—(AP)—Nicholas Petresco, representing the prime minister of Rumania, hereafter will supervise Queen Marie's conferences with press association correspondents aboard her special train.

M. Petresco announced today that in view of the political situation at home and the government's injunction against the queen's granting interviews, he will be present at future press conferences. He also will undertake the duties of liaison officer which heretofore have fallen to Major Stanley Washburn, special aide to the queen.

Marie Not Responsible.

M. Petresco, who is a member of the petresco party now in power in Rumania, pointed out that Marie is not required by law to swear to uphold the country's constitution and therefore cannot be held responsible for her declaration. He hopes to persuade her majesty against utterances which might complicate political matters at home.

The arrangement was made at the instance of M. Petresco after Marie's

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.

United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, November 9.—Lincoln C. Andrews, assistant secretary of the treasury, in charge of prohibition enforcement, has effected the most extensive shake-up in dry forces since the prohibition law was enacted by a general realignment of administrative divisions and officials in the east and south.

This realignment, which, it was explained, was "in the interest of efficiency of administration," includes reduction in rank of two officials, one of whom figured in a controversy several months ago, and their replacement by prohibition enforcement talent from other sections.

The shake-up was announced by Andrews after a conference with administrators from the east and south. The changes will become effective December 1.

Sharpe Is Displaced.

One of the officials displaced was B. F. Sharpe, who was administrator for Georgia, North and South Carolina. This district has been changed to comprise South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, and Robert B. Tuttle, assistant administrator for the New York city district, has been named administrator, Andrews said.

The other demotion was that of R. A. Fulwiler, formerly administrator at Chicago, has been named administrator, with headquarters at Norfolk. Andrews explained that Fulwiler probably will become legal adviser to Merrick.

Other Realignments.

New Jersey had been made a district of itself, with Deputy Administrator Ira L. Reeves named administrator with headquarters at Newark. This was done, Andrews said, because New Jersey "contains so many sources of supply and so many intricate enforcement problems."

La Plata, Md., November 9.—A severe windstorm, sweeping down across the county with the velocity of a hurricane, spread death, injury and destruction through the heart of La Plata today, killing 11 children as it demolished the little schoolhouse where they were reciting their final lessons and racing on to wreck four dwellings and kill two adults further up the street.

Four hours after the tragedy the death toll was placed at 13 and the number of injured at more than 40.

School Walls Crashed.

The wind crushed in the fragile walls of the two-room school building with such force that not an occupant escaped unscathed. Some of the pupils were hurled from their seats and carried 300 feet, to be picked of the skull. A third had entered the right cheek below the eye he said.

Mrs. Hall stirred uneasily, and she did not raise her eyes so much as to glance at the man in white, which Dr. Schulze was drawing diagrams under Simpson's prompting.
Simpson looked off the top of the plaster of Paris skull and lifted out a model of the brain.
James Mills, the murdered woman's husband, leaned forward the better to see the performance.
Charlotte, their daughter, had fled, a handkerchief to her lips, when the head was brought into the court room.
"All the bullet wounds were made by .32 caliber bullets," said Dr. Schulze.

It is a contention of the state that both Stevens brothers possessed revolvers of that character.
"Would any one of them have been sufficient to cause death?" asked Simpson.
"Yes," replied the witness.
"What else did you find?"
There was a slit through the court room. This was the question for which these eager, sensation-seeking folk had allowed their way into the stuffy chamber. In a moment everyone was motionless, waiting.

Mutilated After Death.
A pronounced silence was broken by the steady voice of the medical examiner.
"A wound of the neck," recited Dr. Schulze in a monotone, "incised, that passed from the left side of the neck, forward and around the neck to a point near the trachea."
"It was made from left to right, a clean cut, except directly in front, where the progress of the instrument had been retarded for 4-10 of an inch and then continued."
Immediately Senator Simpson wanted to know if Mrs. Mills had been alive when the murderers who surprised her and the doctor beneath the crabapple tree the fatal night four years ago had slit her throat.
"Had there been any respiration after that wound was made?" he asked.

"The knife," replied the witness, demonstrating upon the mannikin, "had passed through the wind pipe and gullet. The lower part of the wind pipe was in the wound. The jugular vein had been cut. There was blood in the stump of the wind pipe."

Good Marksmanship.
"Did that indicate she had breathed after the cut?"
"No," said Dr. Schulze, "for there was no blood in the rest of the respiratory organs, as would have been the case if she had taken a single breath."

"Was death instantaneous?"
"Not necessarily."
Simpson then asked the witness to show the jury how closely together the bullets had struck.
"To hit a woman's head in a circle of four inches with three rapid shots on a dark night would have taken a pretty good marksman, wouldn't it?" shouted Simpson, glaring at Henry Stevens, the explosives expert.

Describes Hall's Wounds.
Vigorous objections on the part of the defense counsel interrupted the interrogation at this point and finally Simpson said:
"Well, never mind. I'll produce a revolver expert."
Dr. Schulze then described the bullet wound which took the life of Dr. Hall and said the doctor's body had not been mutilated, although he described a bruise upon the right index knuckle.

When the prosecutor sought to have the medical examiner describe the probable position of Dr. Hall's body to receive a bullet wound high in the forehead passing downward and backward at an angle of 45 degrees, the defense objected so strenuously that Simpson desisted and said:

"Cross-examine."
The defense, in the brief time that remained, devoted its attention to attempting to show that Dr. Schulze could not have been positive of the position of the doctor's body.

"This is just one more example of how everything has been dealt with helter-skelter in this case," complained Senator Case for the defense, referring to Simpson's efforts to show that Dr. Hall had been struggling with his assailant. "Even evidence of the crime itself is not yet in."
"I'll handle this case, with the court's permission I see fit," exclaimed Simpson.

"Put on your witnesses then," retorted Case.
Simpson Storms at Court.
"Oh, I won't take any directions from you," stormed the little prosecutor, his face growing red. "You've got all you can do to conduct the defense."
The witness then said he had described all the wounds upon Mrs. Mills' body except a "puncture" of the upper lip, about two-tenths of an inch wide and of the same depth.

"Did it look like a bullet wound?" he was asked upon redirect examination.

"No, I should say it had not been made by a bullet," replied Dr. Schulze.
"Could it have been made by a ring?" asked Simpson.

This question was overruled.
Further questioning then brought out the fact none of the bullet wounds were surrounded by burns or powder stains, indicating, according to the medical examiner, that the bullets had been fired from a distance of at least one foot.

"30-Cent Defense."
Dr. Schulze also said he had with him specimens of skin from around the wounds, but these were not produced, as the hour of four struck and court adjourned, the satiated spectators, whispering and giggling, filed out.

Two other witnesses were on the stand Tuesday, Edward H. Schwartz, of Newark, and former Commissioner Faurot, of the New York police department, finger print expert for the state.

Stumbling, uncertain and occasionally becoming entangled in the mesh of his own questions, former Attorney General McCarter, for the defense, devoted four hours to trying to break down their testimony.

But while he did convince the jury of their certainty that the finger print on the slain doctor's ceiling card was that of "Willie" Stevens, the veteran lawyer made little impression upon the damaging evidence brought out by the state.

And when the curious plaster head of Mrs. Mills' faced them from the witness stand, the chances are that everything else was obliterated from the minds of the jury.

Altogether, it was a day in which the aggressive little prosecutor made the so-called "million dollar" defense look like 30 cents.

LIQUOR TRAFFIC

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Three airplanes to be used in the work of the prohibition enforcers in the southeast, are due to arrive in Savannah within a fortnight. M. O. Dunning, prohibition coordinator for the southeastern states, has announced. Preparations are being made to have the hangars in readiness for the planes which are coming direct from Cheyenne, Wyo., where they have been snowbound for the past week or more, Mr. Dunning stated.

Fighting rum runners from the air seems to be one of the most successful methods of stopping the leakage of liquor into the United States from the Bahamas, according to recent dispatches from Florida received here.

Would-Be Journalists
Make Highest Ratings
In Freshman Tests

Athens, Ga., November 9.—(AP)—Would-be journalists, candidates for bachelor of arts degrees, and younger members of the class, made the highest ratings in the psychological tests given members of the freshman class at the University of Georgia, tabulations just completed by Dr. Q. S. Edwards, professor of psychology, show.

The psychological test was one of the features connected with "Freshman week," a period of orientation, tried by the university this year for the first time.

The test was given 513 members of the class. The highest possible sum, according to Dr. Edwards, which any student could have made on the test was 463.

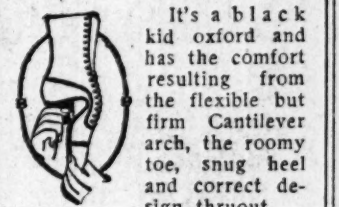

For the entire 513 who stood the test, the range of grades was from 13 to 329, making the median 104. Separate tabulations for male and female members of the freshman class showed that in the case of the men, 422 cases in all, the grades ranged from 13 to 329, making the median 103.

For the 91 women students who stood the test, the range of grades was from 18 to 250, making the median 115.

One part of the test sought to determine the vocations into which members of the freshman class intended to go following graduation from the university. The relative results, according to the tabulation, were in order: Journalism, civil service, chemistry, civil engineering, art, law, business, medicine, bookkeeping, teaching, and 240 were undecided.

OFFICIALS PLAN HERRIN CLEANUP

Herrin, Ill., November 9.—War impends between civil authorities and the range of Williamson county who have left murder and terror in their bullet-scattered wake.

Aroused by the most recent outbreak Saturday night, when Mayor Jeff Stone and John Milroy, of Colo., were killed by machine-gun bullets, authorities indicate the end of their patience has been reached, and that the Birger and Shelton gangs will be punished.

Mayor Marshall McCormick announced Tuesday he would recruit 1,000 men, if necessary, "to put a stop to this gangsterism."

Governor Len Small said he was contemplating action but refused to divulge its nature. Then came a surprise move by State's Attorney Arlie Boswell, who ordered Coroner Bell to delay his inquest for more evidence.

McCormick was especially bitter toward members of the Shelton gang, whose fight with the Birgers over bootleg spoils has made Williamson county bloodier than ever. He said the Shelton gang had attempted to intimidate Herrin officials. Small said he was investigating reports of armored cars and machine guns in Herrin.

Birger, gang leader, assured newspapermen no members of his gang were implicated in murders.

JURY IS SELECTED IN MANLEY'S CASE

regard to the case or that they were partial to or biased in regard to it.

Trial Opens.
Manley went on trial in Fulton superior court Monday morning on charges that while president of the Farmers and Traders bank, the bank became fraudulently insolvent. Judge G. H. Howard overruled a demurrer submitted by defense counsel attacking the validity of the banking act of 1919, upon which the indictment is said to have been drawn against the banker.

A special plea of insanity was filed Monday afternoon late by defense counsel as the second move to delay or prevent trial of Manley on the indictment. This necessitated the empaneling a jury of 12 men to hear the insanity plea before Manley can face a jury on the charges in the indictment.

In a conference with counsel Monday afternoon, Judge Howard expressed opinion that he was ineligible to preside at the hearing due to the fact that he was related to persons interested in the Bank of Cusseta. Tuesday morning, however, Judge Howard was qualified as trial judge.

Jurors Called in Groups.
Judge Howard announced at the beginning of the hearing Tuesday morning that he had found that he was eligible as trial judge, because of the fact that the Bank of Cusseta was in a state of liquidation and also was not one of the banks contributing to the fund to employ Attorneys Reuben R. Arnold and Hugh Howell to assist Solicitor General John A. Boykin, leader of the prosecution forces.

After an hour's conference with attorneys the judge took the bench at 10:20 and ordered a jury chosen to decide upon Manley's mental state. The jurors were called in groups of 48.

Manley sat with his son, Rankin, a few feet behind the table around which his counsel sat. Mrs. Manley sat at the table with counsel, taking an active part in the examination of jurors, and was intent on every word that passed during the session. Judge Arthur Powell sat on her left. Ben Conyers, chief of counsel for Manley, announced the defense challenges.

chief clerk, after several of the veniremen had been disqualified on account of relationship or interest in the Farmers and Traders bank.

More Delay Threatened.
Ben Conyers, defense counsel, interposed a point which threatened to delay selection of the jury for days. After thousands of names of stockholders and depositors in the bank had been read, he showed that in the list there were a number of churches, parent-teacher associations, fraternal organizations, business corporations and partnerships, and made the point that qualification of jurors should extend to members of such organizations or their relations.

Judge Howard ruled that membership in a church or lodge thus concerned or relationship to a member would not disqualify a man for jury service but that ownership or financial interest in a business organization or relationship to a partner or stockholder would do so.

"Officers of fraternal organizations responsible for the deposits or their relatives would be disqualified," Judge Howard ruled.

Counsel in Case.
Defense counsel is composed of Paul S. Etheridge, Ben Conyers and Walter Colquitt, of Colquitt and Conyers; Marion Smith and Judge Arthur G. Powell, of Little, Powell, Smith and Goldstein and J. A. Branch, of the law firm of Branch and Howard.

Prosecution is being conducted by Solicitor General John A. Boykin, Assistant Solicitor John H. Hudson, assisted by Reuben R. Arnold, Hugh Howell and B. P. Gambrell.

Introduction of witnesses and the presentation of evidence will begin this morning at 9 o'clock with the convening of court.

Dr. Ely Smith Jelliffe of New York, internationally known alienist, who appeared in the courtroom Monday, is expected to take the stand for the defense today. Dr. Newdigate Owens, by Atlanta alienist, who testified as to Manley's mental condition before a lunacy commission several weeks ago, is slated to appear for the state.

Glynn Floggers Draw Light Fines For Beating Man

Brunswick, Ga., November 9.—(AP) John F. Howe, W. C. Calire, Frank Acosta, Cavada Acosta, Norman Harrison, Rufus Popwell and Connie Strickland, all white and well known in this county, were convicted in the city court today on a charge of riot, in connection with the flogging of Gus Taylor, young white man of the neighborhood, who, it was charged, had given prohibition officers information which led to arrests of various moonshiners around Thalman. Evidence showed that the young man was taken from his home and given a severe flogging by the men. Judge Butts fined Howe $100, while a fine of $50 each was imposed on the others.

$500,000 Lumber Company Will Open New Hapeville Plant About December 15

President of Evans-Inman Lumber Company Tells Why Great Industry Located Here.

With construction work on the Evans-Inman Lumber company plant at Hapeville, just outside of Atlanta, rapidly nearing completion, G. H. Evans, president of the new organization, announced Tuesday that the plant is expected to be in operating order by December 15.

The opening of the lumber company, a $500,000 corporation with its plant covering 15 acres of a 90-acre tract owned by the Georgia Car and Locomotive company and situated at Hapeville on the Dixie highway and the Central of Georgia and Southern railways, "marks the beginning of the industrial expansion of Hapeville, which heretofore was known chiefly as a residential city," Mr. Evans stated.

"When completed the Evans-Inman Lumber plant," Mr. Evans declared, "will be the first modern roller-bearing hand mill to be located in the Atlanta district." It will consume 15 cars of logs each day and ship out five cars of rough lumber. In the new plant, which will cost $100,000 when completed and in which 20 carloads of machinery is now being installed, 150 hands will be employed at a weekly pay roll of $2,000 for general labor. A large force of millwrights are now employed in equipping the plant and many skilled mechanics will be employed in its operation.

Market for Timber.—With a yearly consumption of $600,000 worth of log lumber, the new plant will furnish the farmers of Georgia with an excellent market for oak, poplar, ash and other hardwood timber, the lumberman stated. The Evans-Inman company is installing its own water system operating from a 10-inch deep well and including a 50,000-gallon concrete tank and a 75,000-gallon reservoir. Provision for enlargement of the plant with anticipated growth has already been made.

In giving his reason for locating the new plant in Hapeville, just 8 miles from Five Points, Mr. Evans, who has been in the lumber business in the south for 30 years and moved from Chattanooga this past April to make his home in the Brookwood Hills suburb of Atlanta, made the following statement:

"Georgia has the lowest log freight rate of any state in the union. The Hapeville tract in which our plant will be located is tapped by both the Central of Georgia and Southern railways and included in the Atlanta switching district, giving it the benefit of Atlanta freight rates. Within a 200-mile radius of Atlanta there is available a great supply of fancy and choice hardwood timber. Surrounding freight rates to the consuming markets are as advantageous here as could be found in any southern city. Atlanta, being an important railroad center, eliminates the anticipation of any trouble in securing freight facilities. Being the largest jobbing center of the south, Atlanta unloads more box cars each month than any other southern city, which insures the largest proportion of empty box cars to reload with lumber and ship north. Among other reasons which, after a thorough survey of the country, made us pick the Atlanta district as the logical site for our lumber plant were the excellent climate and school facilities for our employees' children and the civic and social interests provided by Atlanta that are necessary to keep the high-class skilled mechanics required in a large mill.

"Until recently there was no apparent inclination on the part of Hapeville to be anything more than a residential town," declared G. H. A. Thomas, former mayor of Hapeville, who is in a large measure responsible for the city's new development. "With the coming of the Evans-Inman Lumber company this attitude has been reversed," he stated. "Every effort is being made to bring new industries to the city, which, among other things, can boast of ideal railroad facilities and a topographical lay of land that eliminates much costly grading in industrial developments. An example of this can be found in the flat Candler aviation field."

Veneer Mill Coming.

Hapeville is elated over the coming of the Evans-Inman Lumber company and over the prospect of a large rotary-cut veneer mill, which Charles W. Inman, of Louisville, Ky., chairman of the board of the Evans-Inman Lumber company, plans to move from its present location in Mount City, Ill., to an adjacent tract in Hapeville, Mr. Evans stated. It looks very probable that some $3,000,000 of industrial developments will follow in the wake of the present boom," he said.

Mr. Inman, who proposes to bring the veneer plant to the Atlanta district, is owner and operator of three mills, two in Louisville, and the one in Mount City. He has an option on the property adjoining the lumber plant now under construction at Hapeville, and in moving the Mount City plant there, as planned, will require 175 employees and create an additional market for hardwood, handling about 60 carloads of logs and finished products of the choicest gum, oak and poplar per month. The Evans-Inman company is a million-dollar corporation with a surplus of $750,000 all paid in. Mr. Evans stated.

Officers of the Evans-Inman Lumber company are Charles W. Inman, chairman of the board; G. H. Evans, president; T. I. Evans, L. B. Hildebrand and M. A. Hildebrand, vice presidents, and Charles H. Evans, secretary and treasurer.

Among those helping develop Hapeville as an industrial center are: Mayor Eugene King, G. H. A. Thomas, J. R. Hunnicutt, J. M. Daniel and the Hapeville city council, as prominent citizens of Hapeville; George Lee, industrial agent of the Southern railway; Frank Ellis, division freight agent of the Central of Georgia railway, and Fred Newell, head of the industrial bureau of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

MANY CAR THEFTS REPORTED TUESDAY

Activities of a well organized band of automobile thieves in the downtown district Tuesday came to light when large numbers of car owners reported their motor vehicles had been stolen from parking places.

Detectives are at work on the theory that an out-of-town gang of automobile thieves is operating systematically through the business section. Car owners reporting the loss of machines within the past 24 hours include E. K. Kite, 581 North Jackson street; Josie Hall McAdams, Brookhaven Heights; Inez Coleman, 100 Gilmer street; C. K. Byfield, 238 Peachtree street; W. N. Wrenn, assistant collector of police, Augusta; W. S. James, 1064 Lucile avenue; Robert L. Burns, Lafayette; A. H. Fields, Hapeville; W. E. CHILD CRASH VICTIM SUCCUMBS TO HURTS

Martha Parker, 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Parker, of 408 East Walker street, College Park, died early Tuesday morning at a private hospital as the result of injuries sustained Monday afternoon when the Ford coupe, in which she was riding with her father, was hit by a passenger train at Burr street, College Park. Mr. Parker is still in a serious condition as the result of his injuries.

The child is survived by, in addition to her parents, two brothers, Lemuel and Charles Parker, a sister, Ruby Parker, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Parker, of Miami, and Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Parker, of East Point.

Installation Plan Permitted by Court On Delinquent Tax

On his plea of guilty Tuesday morning in United States district court, H. J. Gwinnett was placed on probation for 12 months by Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley in order that the defendant might pay to the government the money he is alleged to owe the collector of revenue. Gwinnett is to pay the money at the rate of $100 a month. It was stated.

According to charging of the collector of revenue, Gwinnett failed to pay the government war tax collected on a series of eight fights staged by him during 1925, the tax amounting to $1,500, or $2,016 with the penalty attached, and also on a Stribling fight in May of 1924, when the tax amounted to $800, or $1,040 with the penalty. Should the probation be observed by Gwinnett, he will be allowed to finish the payment of the tax due at the same rate, $100 a month, after the 12 months are up, Judge Sibley decided.

ALLEN TEMPLE A. M. E. REPORTS GOOD YEAR

Allen Temple A. M. E. church (Summerhill), Rev. W. B. Clarke, D. D., pastor, closed a successful conference year, according to reports made by officers of the church before 800 members and congregation Monday night. The annual conference will convene in this church on Wednesday morning.

Dr. Clarke, the pastor, is serving his first year in this charge, coming from Bethel, Augusta, Ga., where he served for five years, remodeling the church and completing the parsonage at a large cost. Coming to Allen temple with such a record was but a signal for greater church movements. Allen temple is considered one of the best churches in the state; has given to the connection two college presidents, two general officers and three bishops.

U. S. DRY AGENTS RAID SEVEN STILL'S

Capture and destruction of seven stills and thousands of gallons of still beer and corn liquor through north Georgia within the past few days was reported Tuesday to the office of W. T. Day, deputy administrator for Georgia.

Confiscation of a touring car and the arrest of Broughton, brother of Marietta, in the alleged act of transporting 80 gallons of whisky in Forsyth county was also reported to Mr. Day. Two men were arrested in Lumpkin county on circumstantial evidence in connection with the finding of a huge still and 6,000 gallons of beer, while another, arrested on circumstantial evidence in Lumpkin county involved another still and 1,500 gallons of still beer, it was reported. Other stills found and destroyed by federal agents follow: 1,500 gallons of beer, Dawson county; 1,000 gallons of beer, Habersham county; 3,000 gallons of beer and 78 gallons of whisky, Lumpkin county; 500 gallons of beer, Lumpkin; 1,200 gallons of beer, Dawson county.

13 DEAD, 40 HURT
IN GREAT STORM

up dead or dying among the debris of textbooks, blackboards and desks. The two teachers were preparing to dismiss school when the sky grew suddenly dark. The wind rose to a high moan and the fragile wooden walls of the small schoolhouse shivered and creaked. Children began to scream and bolt for the door. Their teachers were helpless but some of the braver boys began to laugh and calm the younger children. Then a sudden wrench and the walls caved in, pinning about 40 children in their rain-soaked wreckage.

John Marshall Burr, eleven, had been hit by a piece of wood but he retained his presence of mind. He tore aside the twisted boards, shook the plaster off, wormed out of the wreckage, ran to a telephone and shouted to central.

"The school's fallen down. Call everybody."

Relief Comes Quickly. Several men sitting in the nearby hotel and in business buildings had heard the crash and were already running toward the ruins. Children were shrieking. Women began to come out of houses and head for the school house. George Smith reached the scene just as the two school teachers, both seriously injured, were crawling out. He lifted the timbers and pulled out the children, laying them on the lawn.

Then he ran through the streets calling for automobiles. Within a few minutes a caravan was hauling the more seriously injured children to Washington, 25 miles away, for hospital attention.

Meanwhile word of the tragedy reached Washington and all hospitals started ambulances, doctors, nurses and first aid supplies toward La Plata. The war and navy departments and the American Red Cross sent help. A squad of marines was rushed over from Indian Head proving grounds a few miles distant.

"The shrieks of the children above the howling wind were enough to curdle your blood," said Smith. He left for Washington with the first carload of injured children. Practically all of the injured were taken to Washington.

Boy Tells Story. The hero of the storm was John Marshall Burr, 11, son of Rev. S. Q. Burr. The boy was the first to recover after the shock of the storm and sent out the first call for help.

In response to his call the United States marines came to the rescue, assisted by doctors, nurses and ambulances from Washington, D. C. and the naval station at Indian Head, Maryland.

"It was dark and the air felt funny just before the storm," John told the United News staff correspondent. "Some of the kids in the school cried, but the rest of us laughed at them."

"Then it started to gust of wind hit one side of the building, and another hit the other."

"The whole thing fell down on us. I was hit by a piece of wood, but it didn't hurt much."

"I crawled out of what had been our school, and got to a telephone. I told central."

"The school's fallen down. Call everybody."

That was the first word of the storm, and it was transmitted to nearby towns, summoning aid.

Johnny Is Modest. Johnny took the praise bestowed upon him modestly.

"Aw," he said, "I ain't the only hero. Page Clayton helped, too. He pulled out some kids. Mrs. Hughes, the principal, got out from under a stove quite a ways away."

Both school teachers suffered nervous collapses in addition to bodily injuries. The superintendent of schools, F. B. Gwynn, was almost overcome by the tragedy, his own small son also being injured.

Mr. and Mrs. James Padgett were seriously injured when their house, a few yards down the road, was wrecked. Their small daughter, injured in the schoolhouse, was carried there only to have her terror increased by the sight of her demolished home and her injured parents.

Practically every family in the village has been affected by the tragedy. Almost every child in school was killed or injured and scarcely a family was left without some little relative or friend on the casualty list.

Taken to Washington. The village was utterly without facilities for handling the injured. The two doctors soon had out-of-town recruits to help them but they were almost entirely dependent upon supplies from outside and all serious injured had to be taken over the 25 miles of road to Washington for treatment.

"Send us help," the telephone operator cried when she flashed the word of the tragedy to Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Edwards were among the more fortunate parents. They found their small daughter quickly, having driven to the school to take her home. Instead, the father pulled her from the wreckage and started driving at top speed toward Washington. They were the first to reach there.

MANY CHILDREN BURIED UNDER SCHOOLHOUSE. Washington, November 9.—Many children were buried under the flimsy board schoolhouse when it collapsed in the violent twister at La Plata, Md., this afternoon, said one eyewitness, Harry Guy, who brought several injured children to a Washington hospital in his automobile.

"I was sitting in the hotel at La Plata when the storm broke," he said. "It was a twister, and swept up from the southwest, cutting a path 500 feet wide. The schoolhouse was right in the center of the twister's path. It was a clapboard building and it collapsed like paper. Screams of children could be heard above the whine of the wind. Many children were buried under the flimsy boards of the building. Others were blown as far as 300 feet to count how many."

"I didn't stop to count how many."

Visiting Bankers See Vast Industrial Development Coming To This Section

Forty investment bankers of New York were taken for a sight-seeing tour of Atlanta Tuesday in Georgia Railway & Power company coaches. In the picture are shown the bankers on the coaches (top) and (bottom) are seen Sidney W. Noyes, vice president of the New York Trust company, J. H. McClelland, New York, and Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Railway & Power company.

BY PAUL STEVENSON. Years of pioneering in the south by far-seeing developers have not been spent in vain and this section of the country is on the threshold of its greatest era of industrial expansion, according to speakers at a banquet tendered 40 of America's foremost investment bankers at the Capital City club Tuesday night by Harry M. Atkinson, chairman of the board of directors of the Georgia Railway and Power company.

Georgia and other southeastern states are now in a position to reap the benefit of years of effort put forward in behalf of this part of the country by men who had faith in its industrial future, according to the business leaders of Atlanta and New York who spoke Tuesday night. The party of visiting bankers had just completed an inspection tour of the properties of the Georgia Railway and Power company in North Georgia and in their talks they were unanimous in declaring that the south is the section of the United States that is destined to see the greatest industrial development in the next five years.

Thomas W. Martin, president of I brought. I picked up as many as I could carry and started. One 11-year-old lad, the son of Allen Cliggett, died in the car on the way in.

60 Children in School. "It seemed that everybody in town—there are only about 400—rushed to the schoolhouse. Several small homes had been blown down."

"There were about 60 children in the school, I should say. I think most of them were injured."

"The townsmen pulled the crying children out of the wreckage and carried them to nearby buildings until cars could be found to start them toward Washington."

Mrs. B. G. Bowie, mother of Margaret Bowie, rushed frantically about Providence hospital seeking her injured daughter. She knew an autoist brought the child there, but could not find her.

Seven ambulances and a corps of doctors and nurses carrying first aid supplies left the District for La Plata, immediately on receipt of desperate telephonic appeals for help.

Providence, Walter Reed, casualty and emergency hospitals made special preparations to care for the injured. Lieutenant Kellogg Sloane left Bolling field for the scene in a plane to fly over and survey the ground.

Scenes of Heroism. George Smith, a La Plata citizen, arrived at Providence hospital here with an automobile full of injured children. He was one of the first to reach the demolished schoolhouse and his clothes were torn and he was scratched in many places.

"I was sitting in my office when the storm blew up," he said. "I heard the schoolhouse crash and ran out. By the time I got to the scene the two teachers were crawling out of the wreckage. I pulled out as many children as I could, stretched them out on the ground and then ran through the village to get automobiles to carry them to Washington."

"Altogether we brought up about 25 children. The storm started in one corner of the county and moved clear through the town, cutting a path 500 feet wide. It must have lasted 15 minutes. The howling of the wind and the screams of the children were enough to curdle your blood."

"We put the little Bean girl in the lobby of the hotel because she was so badly hurt and she died before we left."

The scenes at Providence hospital, where the first injured were received, was a mixture of comedy, tragedy and youthful heroism.

Lad's Legs Broken. One big policeman tried with no success to keep order and relatives quiet. Children were crying, moaning and sometimes shrieking. Parents began to arrive hunting frantically for their children.

Smith was waiting around to be of assistance in identifying the children. One little fellow whom he had brought up was rolled out of the dressing room.

"Hello, buddy, hurt much?" Smith asked.

"No, the lad replied setting his small jaw grimly."

"Break your leg?" Smith asked, looking down.

"Both of 'em," the youngster answered.

Boy Describes Adventure. Richard Clark, who explained proudly that he will be nine years old on November 22, described his adventure in the cyclone with boyish frankness, he ran as fast as he could from the schoolhouse when something struck him on the head. A bad bruise on his forehead and a scratch on the chin were the extent of his injuries.

He was one of three of the Clark children who were in the school at the time. His brother, Jack, aged 10, was killed, and another, Roger, six, was on a cot upstairs in Providence hospital, suffering from severe injuries. Like the normal child of his years, he spoke without emotion of his brother who had been killed.

"I just ran, and I didn't know I was hurt until I looked in the mirror and saw blood on my face."

"I didn't stop until I got to my uncle's store. That was two blocks away."

"Were you scared to death, Dick?" one of the nurses asked.

"Deed I was," he spoke up promptly.

the Southeastern Power company, sounded the keynote of the meeting when he declared that the meeting of the investment bankers in Atlanta is the most significant financial meeting that has been held in the south in the last half century.

Here As Security Merchants. "These men are here not as bankers but as merchants," he said. "They are in the business of buying and selling securities and here they are for the purpose of inspecting the merchandise they handle first hand. I believe they have been impressed by the potentialities of this section. I know they have been impressed with the vision of such men as Harry M. Atkinson and Preston Arkwright. These gentlemen have come here as the representatives of their investors. They have seen the work of Atkinson and Arkwright, have realized that these men have solved problems that will never again be faced by developers of their class and the net result of their work is the bringing to the cities, towns and communities of the section their greatest opportunity of development."

Mr. Martin said the development of the power properties of the south means much more than the mere bringing of industries to this part of the country.

"It means that the power companies must make themselves the agencies through which the communities themselves must be developed," Mr. Martin said. "Electric power is something that must be sold instantly. It must be sold as quick as it is produced and the communities themselves are our customers as well as the industries that are attracted to these communities by cheap and steady electric power."

Mr. Martin said the south needs capital and needs it in large quantities and said the present visit of the investment bankers would mean much toward obtaining this capital.

Mr. Atkinson next presented C. J. Waddell of Drexel & Co., Philadelphia, who declared in behalf of the visiting bankers that the developments of the power sites in north Georgia are but the harbingers of a future industrial development in the south, which will rival that of New England.

Mr. Waddell complimented Mr. Atkinson for his vision of the future and predicted that their pioneer efforts will bring forth fruits which will bring about a wonderful industrial growth in this part of the country.

C. E. Grosbeck, of the Electric Bond and Share company, of New York, was presented and declared that the south today offers the most inviting field of any section of the country for investors.

"With the power developments finished, with ideal labor conditions and with other economic advantages, this part of the United States is just now ready to come into its own," he said. "These power developments cannot mean anything except that industries must be brought here to consume the power and with these industries coming into all parts of the south you are sure to see an unprecedented development."

Maddox Speaks. Georgia's advantages and Atlanta's advantages were outlined to the visitors by Robert F. Maddox, chairman of the board of the Atlanta and Lowry National bank, who told how this city had grown from the ashes of post bellum days to be the center of the south's business and industry.

"We are proud of the progress we have made and we have made tremendous strides considering the difficulties we have faced," Mr. Maddox said. "We expect our industrial development to run hand in hand with our agricultural development. With the development of this power we can safely say we are standing on the threshold of our greatest era of progress."

Mr. Atkinson then introduced John P. Grant, vice chairman of the Irving Bank and Trust company, of New York, who expressed, on behalf of the visiting bankers, their appreciation of the hospitality bestowed by the people of Atlanta.

Preston S. Arkwright was introduced and assured the visitors that the people of Atlanta and Georgia appreciate the interest shown by them in the industrial development of this section.

Governor Cites Statistics. Governor Clifford Walker cited statistics showing what Georgia has achieved in industry and depicting the potential assets of this state in natural resources. H. N. Addinell, vice president of Harris, Forbes and company, of New York, spoke of the reception accorded the visiting bankers and related their expressions of appreciation of the hospitality given them.

Mr. Atkinson read a telegram from United States Senator Walter F. George in which he expressed his regret at being unable to attend the dinner, but expressing appreciation of the visit to this section made by the bankers.

During the day the visiting bankers were taken for a sight-seeing trip over the Atlanta district in coaches of the Georgia Railway and Power company. They visited Stone Mountain, Kennewick mountain and other points of interest. After the banquet Tuesday night the visitors left for Birmingham where they will inspect the properties of the Alabama Power company.

The open charges of perjury against the Japanese premier filed at Osaka are throwing the politicians into confusion. The case involved the alleged permission by the premier, when home minister, for the transfer of the location of Osaka's red light district, thus greatly enhancing the value of the real estate in the neighborhood of the new vice section.

Advance information reached speculators who, it is judged, paid into the Kaiseiki treasury 200,000 yen (about $100,000). Later the permission for the transfer was withheld, and the speculators squealed.

Birds of Passage~!

*Here today and gone tomorrow,
the itinerant salesman or "Bell Ringer" is the migratory bird of

Just now, Atlanta is fairly besieged by an army of "Bell Ringers." You hear of them on every hand. No place apparently is sacred to the commercial "Birds of Passage." They insinuate themselves into private offices, in business buildings and apartment houses, despite signs forbidding their entrance. Evidently, "Bell Ringers" do not believe in signs. Several times a day housewives are called to the doors of their homes by these peripatetic salesmen who offer everything in the world "at a lower price than you can get in your local stores, dear madam."

Rebuffs do not halt them, for the "Bell Ringer" is a crafty bird. He plays the law of averages to a fare-you-well. What he doesn't get at one house, he will at the next, he figures. And Mr. Bell Ringer's commissions are so huge that he can afford to stand a few rebuffs in the course of his business day. As a rule he pockets the first payment he gets out of his buyer—that's HIS. After that he should worry whether the buyer ever gets full value for the money expended. He has already GOTTEN HIS.

But the sad part of it all is that the itinerant salesman receives but few rebuffs, comparatively speaking, to the number of sales he makes. Most of these sales are made to people who DO NOT STOP TO THINK. They are offered an article of merchandise at a price seemingly so cheap, it seems almost impossible. But the "Bell Ringer" reassures them with his oily patter and half-doubtfully, they buy.

These good people think only of the money they SUPPOSEDLY save on the transaction. They DO NOT think of their act as a DANGEROUS PROCEEDING from an economic standpoint. They fail to think that their act of buying from a house-to-house peddler is helping to undermine the business prosperity of their OWN HOME CITY. They do not think at the moment, if at all, about the investment their home town merchants have made in their businesses—conducted for the convenience and the benefit of the buying public of Atlanta.

They forget that, to use a quaint old expression, they are "taking a shingle off the roof" of their local stores every time they buy from an outside peddler. They do not remember that the local merchant depends upon THEM and THEIR purchases to pay his rent, to make up his payroll, to pay his taxes and to buy fresh, new merchandise that there may always be an abundance of wares in his store for THEIR selection.

But, most of all, they forget that they are deliberately taking money OUT OF CIRCULATION IN ATLANTA and sending it somewhere outside the city and state. Even though the people who buy from "Bell Ringers" thought of this, they might say: "Oh, but my small purchase didn't amount to anything." Perhaps not. But their small purchase is only one of hundreds that go to make up the TREMENDOUS SUM OF BETWEEN THREE AND ONE-HALF and FOUR MILLIONS OF DOLLARS that annually is sent out of Atlanta to the home offices of the "Bell Ringers."

Just think that over the next time a peddler calls at your office or your home. Answer his argument that he can sell merchandise more cheaply than you can get here, by telling him you DO NOT WANT HIS KIND OF MERCHANDISE AT ANY PRICE. Tell him you are going to help support your local stores, so that Atlanta, our glorious city, shall continue to grow and expand and prosper to the end that every individual within her gates may prosper, too.

SAY "NO" to the "Bell Ringers!" Patronize your local stores. Spend your money at home and GET YOUR MONEY'S WORTH.

Copyright, 1926, S. B. Inc.

Please Remember:

This campaign is in no way directed against legitimate local business houses, which because of the nature of their merchandise find it convenient or necessary to demonstrate from door to door. Such reliable stores are entitled to your patronage. It is with the itinerant peddlers for out-of-town concerns that this series of articles has to deal.

Three Outstanding Grid Clashes in S. I. C. Saturday

3rd Heavy Scrimmage For Bulldogs Today

BY MARCUS BRYANT.

Athens, Ga., November 9.—(Special.)—As the climax to the hard work alongside with the Georgia Bulldogs' intensive preparation for the game with Georgia Tech Saturday in Atlanta, Coach "Kid" Woodruff has ordered a heavy scrimmage tomorrow, the third in as many days this week for the Red and Black squad.

Flaws heretofore exhibited in the attack of the Bulldogs are being ironed out by the mentors in an effort to show their charges in the greatest possible form as the most interesting game of the season approaches.

The following varsity team was used this afternoon, and much time was spent again in jacket formations, as well as offensively: Woodall and "Red" Smith, ends; Lucky and "Bear" Morris, tackles; Rogers and Gene Smith, guards; Hollis, center; Captain Morton and McTigue, halves, and Kain, fullback.

Kain Injured.

"Shaky" Kain, a premier line plunger of the Bulldogs, was the victim of a cut over his eye this afternoon, the hurt necessitating a couple of stitches as to medical attention. This will not keep Kain out of the game Saturday, however.

Barring hurts tomorrow, the Bulldogs will face the Jackets in good condition. At present Roy Estes and Glenn Bradley are the only Bulldogs "hors de combat."

It will be remembered that Estes stepped into Kilpatrick's place at halfback last season and distinguished himself nobly. Hope is held that he will be in condition, as his loss will be a severe blow.

No hope is entertained that the latter will return in condition.

Much Interest In Billiard Meet

The widespread interest in the coming national world's championship pocket billiard tournament is being reflected in the preparations being made by the Elks in Philadelphia where the big event will take place in the new Elks auditorium commencing November 6 and continuing until November 17.

Arrangements for handling the biggest billiard event of the year are being made. These include extra stage and seating sections to accommodate an expected record attendance at the matches, also a big banquet to be held prior to the opening of the tournament. Mayor Kendrick and other city officials, the grand exalted ruler, and other prominent officers of the Elks lodge and men of prominence in the sporting and billiard world will attend this banquet which will be the big opening event of the program prepared by the R. P. O. E.

The schedule committee has not yet announced the round robin schedule of games.

Champ's Debut.

Les Murray, Australian lightweight champion, will make his bow at Madison Square Garden, on November 19, against Solly Seeman, of New York.

Boxing Dragons Again Drag Out 'Dutiful Session'

New York, November 9.—The New York boxing commission today doled out suspensions, received and refused to accept four challenges against three champions and reprimanded one of its own guests.

The members did their "duty" by indefinitely suspending Harry Persson, Swedish heavyweight, for fouling Bud Gorman in Madison Square Garden a week ago. Gorman, according to witnesses, leaped about so as to make blows to the body unavoidably foul.

"Old" Mike McTigue, challenger of Bridgeport, for the light heavy crown, which once adorned the ancient Irishman's head.

Joe Dundee, of Baltimore, challenged Pete Latzo, of Scranton, for the welterweight title.

Young Maxey Rosenbloom presented two challenges, one against Tiger Flowers, middleweight champion; the other against Jack Delaney.

The commission refused to accept any of these on the ground that the time which the champions are allowed had not expired.

Elkley Clark, of England, European flyweight champion, was matched to meet Fidel La Barba, world's champion of that class. The contest will take place at Madison Square Garden some time this winter.

Charles Roseberry, world's bantamweight champion, will be reinstated as soon as he accepts in writing the challenge of Bushy Graham, of Ulster, N. Y. Colonel John J. Phelan, chairman of the license committee, informed him. Roseberry agreed to return next week with a written acceptance of Graham's challenge.

Major William Deegan, former commander of the New York American Legion, sitting as a guest of the commission, lighted a cigarette when the announcements to the press were being made. "Duke" William Muldoon, of the commission, leaped up immediately and roared at Deegan:

"Put out that cigarette, you. Every one has to wait until they get out of here to smoke."

Helen Wills Wants Game With Bishop

Berkeley, Cal., November 9.—(AP)—Miss Helen Wills, former women's tennis champion, would be delighted to meet the Right Hon. and Rt. Rev. Arthur Foley Winn, bishop of London, lord bishop of London, in a match here on Armistice day, she said today.

SNOW STORMS DRIVE "BIG 10" TEAMS INSIDE

Chicago, November 9.—(AP)—Field houses and gymnasiums on every Big Ten campus echoed tonight with the shrill barking of football signals as western conference teams, driven indoors by snowstorms, readied themselves as best they could for Saturday's games.

Several coaches were irked by missing a scrimmage session, but made the indoor workout do and hoped to get on the turf again tomorrow.

Northwestern worked with fatalistic frenzy. The Wildcats are dedicating Dyche field, their new stadium, Saturday and they are entertaining the Maroons on the Evanston gridiron for the first time in almost 20 years. Ill-fortune is traditional on dedication days and the Purple will feel as strange playing its Chicago engagement on its own turf as though it were playing abroad, for ever since the game became traditional Stagg field has been the seat of the conflict between the two great universities.

No One Injured.

None of the Northwestern team was injured against Purdue and the Wildcats drilled his men on defensive formation.

Wisconsin foresees its first real chance to beat Iowa since the schools resumed relations in 1924. Iowa has won both contests in the last two years but in the infrequent clashes between 1904 and 1917 the Badgers won eight straight. Little told his men that the loss to the Michigan called for no alibi but that victory must be the Badger lot against the slugging Hawkeyes.

Michigan, regarded by Wolverine followers as nearing the peak of its form, drilled confidently for Ohio State and found itself a favorite after the easy win from Wisconsin. Ohio State, however, was equally confident, and had the advantage of a week's rest.

Illinois, Minnesota and Purdue do not regret the inability to practice outdoors for the Illini meet Vabush. The Gobblers play Butler and Purdue engages Franklin in easy contests. Illinois already is looking to the Ohio State game, Minnesota to its return match with Michigan, and Purdue to Indiana.

Indiana had a non-conference foe, but a formidable one, in Mississippi A. C. McPhee told his players they would have to play the best football of the season to win.

Probe of 'Big Three' Relations Demanded

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.) Princeton, N. J., November 9.—Declaring it is unnecessary at the cost of Princeton's dignity to preserve the "Big Three," the Daily Princetonian today demands an immediate investigation into the athletic relationship of the University with Harvard and Yale and a complete disavowal by Harvard of much-resented references to the Orange and Black by the Harvard Lampoon.

Unofficially the attitude of Princeton is one of aloofness on the ground that references do not represent Harvard sentiment toward its old athletic rival.

Silent on Matter.

"When the 'Big Three' was preserved recently, following a suggestion from Harvard athletic authorities that the Princeton-Harvard football game be suspended for 1927 and 1928, the Princetonian was for the most part silent on the matter, but nevertheless, the paper says, "it was felt generally that Princeton was big enough, sensible enough, to overlook a slight lack of tact for the sake of keeping unimpaired an old and undeniably valuable athletic relationship among three great eastern universities."

The main question at issue is the status of the triple agreement, the "Big Three." The Princetonian feels that the time has come for an examination to determine just what that title implies—with a view, it is strengthening the thing itself, or doing away with it immediately, entirely, once and for all.

"Admittedly it is a triumph, a triumvirate thoroughly worth preserving, provided each of the three members can maintain a healthy and sportsmanlike attitude. But if a few Harvard men would have us believe, one of the parties to the agreement is disgruntled or for any reason desires to get out, then it is high time for the dissolution of the 'Big Three.' At all events, it is high time for a re-evaluation of feeling and a complete understanding on all sides."

SMALL ASSAULTS WATER POWER ACT

Asheville, N. C., November 9.—(AP)—The federal water power act is so "tainted" with invasions of the sovereign rights of states that it should be "declared contrary to the spirit of our government and to the constitution of the United States," John H. Small, former congressman from North Carolina, told the annual meeting of the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners here in an address tonight.

Mr. Small spoke on the subject, "Water Power—Federal and State Jurisdiction."

Asserting that during recent years there has been noted a disposition on the part of congress to extend federal power, Mr. Small said that the "jurisdiction to regulate power is with the states."

He pointed out that the federal government is in full charge of navigation and may attempt to regulate power through this method, but added that in his opinion the generation of power is not commerce between the states.

"The federal government," he said, "may prevent or permit the use of water from navigable streams, but having permitted such diversion, it may not invade the right of the state to control corporations engaged in using such water for power or other purposes. The federal government cannot fix rates for electric power."

TIDE RESUMES WORK AFTER DAY OF REST

BY BOB MATHERNE.

University, Ala., November 9.—(Special.)—Either because of a rain that fell all day or because of the desire not to over-work the Crimson squad, Alabama's undefeated Tide outfit was given a holiday Monday before they were put through a severe scrimmage against Florida plays here today. The Tide plans to leave the Capstone early Friday morning for Montgomery where Saturday they will meet the Florida Gators.

Alabama's championship-seeking eleven is not pointing overly hard for the Gators as it is felt that the Crimson players could not stand much more pointing after the severe battle they went through last week against Kentucky and come through a game this week-end without too much missing in the face of the annual Thanksgiving day game with Georgia, for the Gators are regarded as fairly safe but the Bulldogs are not.

The Tide members are in excellent shape. Archie Taylor, the Savannah from his hand Monday morning. It was the disposal of the old serious injury on the squad. Several minor injuries exist, but they are minor ones and not especially worrisome to the Crimson mentors at this time.

Alabama will not take any chances with Florida Saturday. The latter's impressive victory over Clemson may have been just a forerunner of a rejuvenated Gator outfit, and the Crimson regulars will start and stay against the Floridians until enough points have been made to assure Alabama her seventh conference victory.

READING COMPANY INCREASES WAGES OF 5,000 WORKERS

Reading, Pa., November 9.—(AP)—The Reading company has increased the wages of its carpenters, machinists, boiler-makers, car repairers, blacksmiths and similar artisans 3 cents an hour, effective Monday.

The increase affects approximately 5,000 men on the system and was effective November 1.

Two Big Games Scheduled For Preps This Week

University, Tech Hi Face Tough Teams Here This Week-End

Local Teams Will Clash With Out-of-Town Elevens in Big Games of Prep School Schedule at Spiller Field. Coaches Drilling Squads in Hard Work. Preparing for Battles.

BY BEN COTHMAN.

UNIVERSITY and Tech High, Atlanta's participants in the two big games of the week-end among the preps, are hard at work preparing for the out-of-town foes. University will meet Lanier High Friday afternoon at Spiller's, and Tech High will play Riverside Saturday morning at the same place.

Marist will be the only other local team playing at home, and will tie up with Powder Springs A. and M. Friday on the Marist campus. Coach Bean has taught his men plenty of football this year, and is turning out another winning team, the Cadets having won every game this season, with the exception of the Newnan game last Friday, which ended at 6-0.

Pup Phillips expressed himself as not being at all satisfied with the showing made against Norman Park last Saturday, when the Bluebirds were beaten, 18 to 13, and is working his boys hard this week.

The Bluebirds will still be minus the services of Olin Ferguson, big full-back, who has been out for the past three weeks with an injured shoulder. None of the other Bluebirds are reporting any injuries at present, and with the exception of Ferguson, the squad is in good shape for the game. Hunsinger Going Good.

John Hunsinger, flashy U. S. B. backfield ace, has been running in form all week, and looks as good as ever. Pup sent his team through a hard scrimmage against Tech freshmen Thursday afternoon, and Hunsinger was good for many long gains. Lanier will be without the services of its most consistent ground gainers next Friday, according to reports issued from Macon. Corbin, Foot half-back, received an injured leg in the Tech High game, and was not able to play last Friday. Coach Zellars stated Tuesday that he saw no chance of Corbin getting into action against the Bluebirds Friday.

Underwood, an end, also has an injured leg, and although he will be able to play, will not be able to put up his best game.

Coach Tolbert is giving the Smiths plenty of hard work, and is not indulging in an attempt to whip his men into shape for the hard struggle when they encounter Riverside.

Charlie Bardwell, one of the best backs in the prep loop, returned to practice yesterday afternoon, but his broken collar bone is not yet entirely healed and he can only indulge in light workouts. It is doubtful whether or not Bardwell will be able to play.

"My wife doesn't talk about a divorce! You bet your life she doesn't! She's sold on her old man! I understand women! For instance, I just got her a fur coat for Christmas. A peach! NO, I don't know much about furs, but I got it where they do! At Allen's! You can depend on anything you get there, in the first place, and in the second, their salespeople go out of their way to help men Christmas shoppers. Nothing expensive about that fur coat present, either, when you figure the divided payment arrangement they made for me.

'Y' WRESTLING TOURNEY HERE IS BIG EVENT

Indications point to having even a more interesting wrestling championship than last year. The entries, which closed on November 8, show that all the best wrestlers in the membership have entered. The men are more experienced this year and the personnel of the entries in the various weights show that no one would be safe in picking the favorites.

The first preliminary bouts will be held Saturday, beginning at 7 p. m. All matches will be held in the boys' gymnasium at the central Y. M. C. Ave. 75 Luckie street. No admission will be charged and every one is invited to attend.

List of competitors: Bantam weight, O. A. McCoy, R. A. Carden, and Benj. F. Wells; featherweight, George Mitchell, L. C. Nance, G. A. Tatum and A. H. Chamberlain; light weight, J. M. Hudson, George E. Erwin, present champion, and M. B. Witherspoon; welterweight, Wesley Wainle, present champion, and E. B. Rich; and Zettie Akins; middleweight, Jim Botsaris, present champion; Roy Crawford, R. L. McDuffie and H. J. Jordan; light heavyweight, G. Kane, L. W. Rents and J. J. Endicott.

The first will see some real action when R. A. Carden meets Benjamin F. Wells in the preliminary of the bantamweight class, and in the featherweight preliminary A. H. Chamberlain and G. A. Tatum will match wits. The best match of the evening should be between H. J. Gordon and R. L. McDuffie in the first middleweight preliminary. Both men are about evenly matched and have quite a bit of experience. Medals will be presented to the winners of each class at the end of the tourney. Bouts will be held each Saturday night until all are completed.

MARINE SQUAD INVADERS FORT GRID SUNDAY

The famous Parris Island Marines will invade Fort McPherson Sunday to play the rejuvenated Twenty-second infantry team, which, for the past two weeks, has been preparing for this particular game. The Marines have a wonderful record for this season, and their goal line is yet to be crossed by an opponent. They have defeated, among others, Piedmont college, of Demorest, Ga., whom they beat to the tune of 78 to 0. This gives an idea of their strength.

Led by "Swede" Larson the Marine squad of 26 men will arrive from Savannah at Fort McPherson Friday. Among the stars who formerly starred at colleges will be Bob Griffin, of Clemson; McDowell, of Citadel; Larson, who was U. S. Marine in the Naval academy Midshipman and who will hold down one of the halfback jobs. Gothe and Wetzlar, of the Marine team, are enlisted men but they would look good in anybody's backfield. They play full and half, respectively. McCracken, captain of the team, plays center.

The Twenty-second infantry is practicing daily for the big clash and Coach Cunningham is putting his men through strenuous training. In preparation for the Marines. Greatly strengthened by Rich, McConnell, Sessions and Sam Anderson, who were unable to play against the Marines in the first game with the infantry, the Fort McPherson team will be able to give a good account of themselves. These former all-state prep stars who are students in the West Point preparatory school will go a long way toward making the Doughboys a greatly improved outfit.

Anderson, showed his stuff in the Sixth cavalry game two weeks ago, running through the Horsemen time and again for long gains. Lieutenant Saffarans and Walker have both reached top form and with Hoover to help out the infantry ought to be able to put up a real fight. McConnell will add weight and fight to the line.

7 Games Scheduled In Sandlot League

Seven corking good games are scheduled in the Atlanta Sandlot league for Saturday. About the biggest game on the books is the one between the Rinky Dinks and the strong Grant Park eleven to be played at Grant Park.

Following is the schedule for games to be played Saturday in the Sandlot league:

National League.
Rinky Dinks vs. Grant Park at Piedmont.
Atwood Athletic Association vs. Scarlet Hurricane at Piedmont.
Samartians vs. Peachtree Pen Greens at Joe Brown at 2:30.
North Side Bulldogs vs. Confederate Avenue at Piedmont.
Kirkwood Cabin Owls vs. Martha Brown Eagles at Kirkwood.

Southern League.
O'Keefe Panthers vs. Oakhurst at Decatur High at 3 o'clock.
Briarcliff vs. Emory Bullpups at Candler park.

Manuel Winner Over Tom Jones

Jacksonville, Fla., November 9.—(P)—Young Manuel, Cuban lightweight boxing champion, tonight left-handed a decisive way to a unanimous three-judge decision over Tommy Jones, Macon, Ga. The bout brought the first-sized National Guard boxing exhibition crowd to its feet throughout the 10 rounds.

In the eight-round semi-final, Pete Rivera, Tampa bantamweight, won a unanimous judges' decision over Quinn Lee, Mobile. Rivera also poured leather into his opponent with his left hand.

Rivaling the final and semi-final matches in interest was a six-round preliminary, which saw two lightweights—Cy Baine, Newark, N. J., and Pete Antley, Columbus, Ga., fight to a draw.

Joe Beach, Newark, N. J., registered the only knockout of the evening, when he felled Joe Houston, Jacksonville, in the first round of their scheduled round-round featherweight battle.

Cornell Laboring.
Rhacna, N. Y., November 9.—"Gloomy" Gil Dobbs put the Cornell varsity through one of its most strenuous sessions since the season began. The reason, of course, is because the Red and White Saturday will meet its toughest opponent, Dartmouth.

HAWK-EYE-ING SPORTS

BY DICK HAWKINS.

About Sportsmanship.

It has been the policy of this column to refrain from preaching as much as possible. Not so much because of any personal objection to giving unsought advice but because of the belief that a sports column is not the place to preach.

BUT THERE IS ONE SORE SPOT WHICH CONTINUES TO FESTER AND WE FIND THAT WE MUST AIR OUR OPINION OR "BUST."

At nearly every game it is very apparent that the stands at Grant field are filled with better officials than are to be found on the field. Any close decision made by any official in a game at Georgia Tech—and the same is true of other games in other cities—brings forth a roar of boos or a tornado of hisses from the supporters of the team which is supposed to suffer from the supposedly inaccurate ruling.

At the risk of calling down the wrath of some of those spectators who are among the hisses, we submit the following statements, substantiated with considerable experience in the stands and no little experience on the actual playing end:

1. Probably not one spectator out of 100 can see a close play on the football field accurately enough to pass an opinion on the correctness of an official's decision.

2. The officials are trained by their calling to see plays with an expert eye and their knowledge of the rules enables them to pass judgment on a play with a greater degree of accuracy than is possible on the part of a spectator even if this spectator were in a position to see the play as clearly.

3. There may be as many as three or four persons out of every 100 in the stands who watch the ball while a play is in progress. These may be but we doubt if the total is that large. Most decisions, which bring about penalties and touch off the fuse on his box are made at a point remote from the ball and therefore are seen only indistinctly—if at all—by a very few people in the stands.

4. We are going to assume, too, that the majority of officials are honest in their decisions whether they be right or wrong and we are assuming too that no human being with but one pair of eyes can watch 22 men in a football game and see every action made by all of them.

5. Therefore we appeal to the fans of Atlanta or Valdosta or Rome or Buckhead or wherever, to give the officials the benefit of the doubt. It does no possible good to "beep" about a decision and may have the effect of making an official nervous and thus reduce the percentage of his efficiency. And after all it is unsportsmanlike to the nth degree to kick about a decision against one's own team. And that, therefore, is that.

Let us add that we are not on the payroll of the officials. We are advancing the above brief in behalf of good sportsmanship. Wait until an official proves by repeated "mistakes" that he is dishonest then we will pluck the raspberries for you to fling.

Brilliant Match Arranged.

During this hectic season of football it is hard to realize that golf still has a place on the roster of sports, but let us hope that Atlanta is soon to be given a treat in the form of a golf match which may serve to turn many eyes from the gridiron for the nonce.

The four principals in the pending match are no others than the famous combination of Jones and Gunn pitted against the hardly less famous team of Farrel and Sarazen.

Both Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrel are golfers of exceptional ability and both have won major titles. They will play Bobby and Watts in an exhibition match at East Lake on November 20 for the benefit of the Junior League.

Naturally the Junior League must pay these two top-notch professionals a substantial sum to get their services for as hard a match as they will have against Bobby and Watts here, but there is no question about the profit of the investment if golf lovers are willing to pay for as great a match as could be seen on the links of the United States.

There will be two of the nation's greatest professionals, who have struggled side by side in many a match, pitted against the world's greatest amateur and another amateur who is on the high road to golfing fame. Truly it promises to be a historic match well worth the seeing.

Wildcats Work Hard.

Evanston, Ill., November 9.—The Northwestern Wildcats are being put through hard drills under lashing criticisms to keep them from developing a "superiority complex" in their game Saturday with Chicago. For the first time in a decade the Wildcats go into the annual clash as favorites and Coach Glen Thistlewaite is taking no chances on having the victory muffed through over-confidence.

Stagg Works New Plays.

Notre Dame, November 9.—Coach Stagg is developing new plays and attempting to bolster up the morale of the Maroons who go against Northwestern Saturday as the underdogs for the first time in ten years.

Fulton Refused Reinstatement

Minneapolis, Minn., November 9.—(P)—Minnesota's boxing commission today refused to reinstate Fred Fulton, the plasterer, and permit him to fight Bearcat Wright, Omaha negro, here Friday night. Fulton was barred from fighting in Minnesota and other states after his alleged "fixed" match with Tony Fuente in Los Angeles.

15 EASTERN TEAMS CLASH ON SATURDAY

New York, November 9.—(P)—Led by Army's unbeaten warriors of mole-skin and pigskin, 15 formidable football battalions of the east will unlimber heavy artillery on Saturday in the most extensive series of major engagements this year.

At least eight of these struggles will involve foes of long standing. Chief national interest will center in Army's battle with Notre Dame at the Yankee stadium, where two unbeaten elevens will battle with championship aspirations at stake. Ancient rivalries will be renewed between Princeton and Yale, Harvard and Brown, Colgate and Syracuse, Cornell and Dartmouth, Williams and Amherst, Washington and Jefferson and Pittsburgh, and Pennsylvania and Columbia.

Irish Hold Honors.
The Army-Notre Dame feud started 13 years ago in defeat of the West Point team, 35 to 13. In the 12 games played Rockne's teams have carried off the honors in eight, Army has won three, while one contest, that of 1922, ended in a scoreless tie.

The overwhelming victory of the future Generals here last year at 27-0 interrupted a long Notre Dame march, for the Hoosiers had not previously been upset by Army since 1916. The grapple of Princeton and Yale, which may decide the "big three" championship, brings together the most ancient foes of the gridiron. They opened football hostilities more than half a century ago. With a triumph over Harvard last week, the Tigers today ruled favorites to repeat their 1925 sweep to titular honors.

ALL TICKETS FOR ARMY CLASH TAKEN

New York, November 9.—All tickets for the Army-Notre Dame game here Saturday have been sold out by the sources that legitimately handle them and New York is now experiencing the greatest speculators' holdup that has attended any football game this season.

The pasteboards, with $3.20 plainly printed thereon, are being disposed of by the "speakers" for $10, $12 and even $15. The best of these tickets are not in choice sections, but the sale is brisk.

In almost any large hotel lobby or along Broadway, the genial gentlemen who are so glad to accommodate with tickets "slightly higher than box office prices," are whispering their wares to any likely looking collegiate. They are having little trouble getting their prices and as the supply diminishes, the rates probably will increase to as high as $25.

Little Betting Done.
Little betting is being done on either side. There seems little basis for odds either way.

Coach Knute Rockne is heading this way with one of the greatest elevens Notre Dame has produced since 1924, when the "four horsemen" ruled the gridiron.

But Rockne also is returning with almost the same team which the Cadets humbled last year. However, the Irish are seasoned by hard games last year and this, and aching for revenge for last year's 27-to-0 blotch.

Rain Halts Tigers.

Princeton, N. J., November 9.—A muddy field and rain prevented the Tigers from going through any hard work. Most of Tuesday's work was confined to signal drill and theoretical football.

Harvard Has It Easy.

Cambridge, Mass., November 9.—A light workout constituted Tuesday's session in the stadium of the Harvard football squad preparing for their battle Saturday with the Brown Bear. It is the Crimson's intention to put its strongest team on the field in an effort to maintain their good work of the past two weeks. Cambridge's main topic of discussion Tuesday was over the possibility of a break with Princeton with many expressing the hope that such a thing would come to pass.

Rudolph Upsets Billiard Tourney

Philadelphia, November 9.—(P)—Erwin Rudolph, Chicago, created the first upset tonight in the tournament for the world's-pocket billiard championship by defeating Frank Taberski, Schenectady, N. Y., 125 to 22 in nine innings.

Daviscourt Wins From Londonos In Thrilling Mat Fight

Pacific Coast Star Wins Single Fall In Rough Exhibition

Divitch Downs Renthrop in 54-Minute Struggle—Stevens Throws Kid Kelly After Five Minutes of Grappling—Roughness of Headliner Features.

BY DICK HAWKINS.

Rough Richard Daviscourt, the amiable bone-crusher from the sunny Pacific, pounded his way to a one-fall victory over Jimmy Londonos, the pride of Hellas, Tuesday night at the auditorium in the most grueling wrestling match ever witnessed in Atlanta.

Because of the rough tactics employed by both wrestlers there was much less real wrestling than is usually seen when Jimmy Londonos is one of the principals. It was imperative, however, for the Greek—who is one of the cleanest wrestlers in the game—to employ rough methods to cope with the mean man from the west.

Daviscourt's advantage of nearly 3 pounds in weight was one of the greatest factors in the match. His poundage made it hard for Londonos to apply his famous flying headlock with any degree of efficiency, while Daviscourt was able, through his greater weight, to add to the effectiveness of his side headlock.

It was a close match from start to finish and the outcome was in doubt throughout the two-hour time. The 3,000 persons who witnessed the fracas went to their homes well satisfied with the result, which was typical of all those staged by John Contos, the popular Greek promoter.

After one hour, 35 minutes and 40 seconds Daviscourt triumphed in the first fall with a series of headlocks. The Daviscourt victory was one of surprise, since it looked for a long time as if the stocky little Greek would make his flying front headlocks the downfall of the Californian.

A Rough Match. The match was one of roughness throughout. Londonos played an unusual game, considering his usual ethical, almost gentle, manner of working. But Daviscourt, the "meanest man," began a lot of rough stuff that Londonos attempted to end by retreating in like manner. The result, Londonos and Daviscourt drew a draw on the rough hours, despite the fact that Referee Renthrop was making them adhere to regulations pretty strenuously.

Several times during the initial match both of the grapplers went out of the ring. Londonos, who had been about indiscriminately in a thriller that was comparable to his hair-raising qualities, to that match of several weeks ago when Browning and Daviscourt brought a staid and settled atmosphere to the ring.

More people will see it with everyone trying to get tickets. There are a few seats available, but try and get 'em and you'll think there aren't half so many. But they may be had and the lucky persons will have the treat of a lifetime in one of the greatest "laffs" shown Broadway ever went over.

James Coots, Jeanne Devereux, Alan Devitt, Rhea Divillet, Gus Forbes, Theodora Shaler and a score of others help make it a wondrous presentation.

Loew's Grand. Some of the prettiest scenic effects seen here in many months are used in "Danceland," the beautiful headline attraction on the vaudeville bill at Loew's Grand theater this week. Gomez and Winona are stars in the act and present almost every conceivable kind of dancing. Four other excellent acts are on the bill, including Marty White, nut comedian; the Herberts, in a sensational casting act; Frank Brown and May a Velle, who in a ludicrous comedy sketch with music; Helen Moretti, in a pleasing repertoire of popular songs. The Loew's feature picture for the week is "The Gay Deceiver," with Lew Cody and an all-star cast.

Howard Theater. Many playgoers have passed in a glorious parade on the screen of the Howard theater, but it remained for "The Prince of Tempers" to introduce what is probably the finest aggregation of talent ever brought to that theater in one screen production. At the head of the featured cast is Ben Lyon, Lois Moran, Lya de Putti and Mary Brian. But it is not in talent only that "The Prince of Tempers" is so big an attraction. There is a story—a real smashing, dramatic motion picture story, adapted from "The Ex-Duke," a novel by E. Phillips Oppenheim.

John Murray Anderson's Public presentation, "Phantom Melodies," is this week's stage feature.

JOHN MADDEN QUILTS SENDING COLTSTOMART

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Lexington, Ky., November 9.—John E. Madden will no more breed horses for the market. The peer of American breeders for nine years hereafter will confine his attention to racing a stable for the glory there is in it, today having completed the disposal of his breeding stock in one of the largest auctions of thoroughbreds ever held in this country.

John D. Martin, president of the association, also indicated that he had been appraised of these plans when he Tuesday night refused to comment on the proposal. In declining comment he said, "It has always been my custom not to comment on matters to be submitted to the directors in advance of the meeting."

In this statement he designated the meeting date as November 29.

With the statement by Mr. Spiller that the approval of the board of directors will be sought on this matter, it becomes apparent that a proposal that has been revived with the close of the season for a number of years past is reaching a decisive point.

DIRECTORS MEET NOVEMBER 29. Memphis, Tenn., November 9.—(AP) Southern association directors will meet at league headquarters here November 29 to lay plans for the 1927 baseball season. Announcement of the meeting date—the annual legislative meeting of the association—was made tonight by John D. Martin, president of the association.

Mr. Martin declined to discuss matters likely to be taken up for consideration at the annual pow wow of the baseball men.

"It has always been my custom not to comment on matters to be submitted to the directors in advance of the meeting," the league executive explained.

Mobile Will Retain Southern Franchise

Mobile, Ala., November 9.—(Special.)—Mobile's franchise in the Southern baseball league is to be retained, according to an announcement made this afternoon by a special committee named several days ago by Mayor Harry T. Hartwell to devise ways and means of holding the franchise.

The committee, headed by J. L. Bedsole, reported to Mayor Hartwell this afternoon that plan for retaining the franchise has been worked out. Full details of the plan will be made public in a few days, it was announced. It was stated, however, that mobile citizens have responded with substantial subscriptions and that the plan contemplates continuing the baseball association as now existing with its charter privileges and other properties and rights. The baseball company will acquire a new park from the city.

DOHERTY AND FALL READY TO PLEAD

The former secretary of interior spent today meeting old friends. He is living in the same hotel where he lived while a member of the Harding cabinet, and where Doherty had an apartment at the time they discussed the naval oil lease. Southern Officials Meet November 29

C. F. THOMPSON. When the board of directors of the Southern league meets in Memphis, November 29, they will be called on to approve the entry of Atlanta in the Southeastern league, thus practically establishing two organized baseball teams in this city.

R. J. Spiller, owner of the Atlanta Crackers, will ask the board's approval of these plans when he Tuesday night refused to comment on the proposal. In declining comment he said, "It has always been my custom not to comment on matters to be submitted to the directors in advance of the meeting."

'BIG 5' BATTLES WILL DECIDE N. C. STANDING

Raleigh, N. C., November 9.—(AP) Grid battles which have direct effect upon both the top and bottom of North Carolina's football ranking are slated for this week.

Duke and State meet in Raleigh Thursday, for an Armistice day fray, expected to determine which team will occupy the cellar. Both teams have been badly defeated in their encounters with other members of North Carolina's "Big Five."

State will play Wake Forest Saturday to win, 6-0, and is awarded an even chance to take the Duke eleven into camp.

Second Place Battle. The battle for second place, and possibly the state championship, takes place in Davidson Saturday between the Davidson Wildcats and the University of North Carolina. The University after dropping the opening game of the season to Wake Forest, has come back strong and is regarded as favorite despite the fact that the Wildcats held Wake Forest to a tie.

Wake Forest will give both a claim and throw the championship into a maze of technical claims.

The winner of this game will likely be proclaimed runner-up for state championship when they meet later in the season. Barring an upset at the hands of the below par Wake Forest, the outcome will be a claim to the state title if Carolina beats Davidson. If Davidson defeats Carolina, then the Davidson-Wake Forest tie will give both a claim and throw the championship into a maze of technical claims.

Where Is Ty? Ty Cobb, late of the Detroit Tigers, was in Atlanta Tuesday. If he came to do anything further toward the purchase of the Atlanta Crackers then it is a matter of mystery. Mr. R. J. Spiller, the gentleman from whom the Crackers would necessarily have to be purchased, said that he didn't. Close friends of Mr. Cobb stated that he did. Mr. Cobb didn't say anything at all, for he could not be located by reporters to whom he would have to say something if he were to be printed. So there you are.

Ex-Ball Player May Get Pardon For His Bravery

Columbus, O., November 9.—(AP) C. W. (Tex) Lattimer, former big league baseball player, now serving a life sentence in the Ohio penitentiary for second degree murder, may have won himself a pardon or other clemency by his heroism during the pitched battle that attended the escape and recapture of 13 convicts yesterday.

Lattimer, a trusty, was working in the penitentiary office when the alarm sounded. He seized a revolver and joined the guards.

Miss Amanda Thomas, daughter of Warden E. E. Thomas, heard in the residence quarters above the sound of the shooting and started downstairs. Lattimer endeavored to persuade her to stay upstairs safely. When she refused, he placed himself in front of her, it was said, to shield her from the convicts.

Lattimer was sentenced from Xenia, Green county, two years ago. He is said to have slain a man who was declared to be out to "get" him.

Lattimer was catcher with the Baltimore American league team in 1901 and a member of the Brooklyn Nationals in 1902.

Oliver Glaspy, the only one of the 13 convicts not captured yesterday, had not been heard of by prison officials today.

Yost Hurries Up. Ann Arbor, Mich., November 9.—Coach "Hurry Up" Yost is drilling his charges for a smashing line attack Saturday against Ohio State in what looks as the test battle of the big ten. Through the sudden development of Walter Weber as a plunger, Michigan has been given its best line plugging attack in four years.

Married 28 Years. Frank H. Reynolds, councilman from the eighth ward, Tuesday celebrated his 28th wedding anniversary on the same spot on which he was wed. He received the congratulations of friends at his business offices in the Candler building, the spot on which 28 years ago the first 28-hour church stood, and in which he was married to Miss Eva Patterson.

Beside Dr. Baird, the deceased is survived by two more sons, Owen and William Baird, and four daughters, Mrs. R. T. Presson, Mrs. A. C. Gray, Mrs. W. W. Parr and Mrs. E. E. Baker.

The body will be brought to Atlanta this afternoon when funeral arrangements will be announced from T. C. Basemore company.

Fifteen Teams Entered. New York's six day bike race starts December 4, at Madison Square Garden. Fifteen teams will compete. One of them is likely to be Otto Petri, of Germany, and Dave Lands, of Irvington, N. J., winners of the recent Chicago six day race.

What's Wrong With Yale. Alumni have scratched their heads without success, to recall any season when Yale has failed to score a single point in three successive games prior to meeting its "Big Three" rivals. The Elis have been blanked by Brown, Army and Harvard in a row, the opposition rolling up 55 points.

Scrimmages Omitted From Daily Practice Of Golden Tornado

Coach Alex Taking No Chances With Men Counted On to Turn Back Bulldogs—Team, However, Holds Hard Workout—New Backfield Being Groomed. to Throw in Action.

BY CARTER BARRON. CRIMMAGE will not be given an opportunity to bruise or mar the freshness of the Golden Tornado in preparation for the fray with Georgia for The Constitution trophy at Grant field Saturday. Tech coaches have decided that no scrimmage will be held this week.

In making the decision Coach Alex said that he did not want any untoward influence handicap his men, and he believes that a hard week of practice with several scrimmages sessions would leave not a few members of his available list with injuries that might somewhat decrease their effectiveness.

Finley McRae, quarterback, who is temporarily out with a terribly lamed leg, may be available for service Saturday. He will, if present indications hold out, but whether the leg will heal with expected rapidity is not known.

The Techsters went through a tough workout Tuesday that snatched everything but actual scrimmage. Scrimmage of the dummy variety held away for some time, and the Tornado went through a signal running pace that was quite lengthy.

Three Teams Worked. Three teams, one under Coach Alex, and the others under Don Miller and Bill Fincher, assistants on the Tech coaching staff, were put through a long signal drill.

Then the dummy pits and hucking apparatus was frequented for some little time, and to cap the night the Techsters went through a long signal drill.

Coach Alex is grooming a new backfield which has Bob Farham and Bob Horn in halfback positions, the first Bob being at left and the second at right. Brewer is at quarter in this new foursome combination and Murray is at fullback.

Tom Angley will continue out of his right guard position if present indications hold out. From here it appears that Drennon will perform in the place that he played last Saturday, that of right guard.

To Have Fresh Team. While a heavy schedule of practice is to be adhered to at Tech flats throughout the week, it will not be too heavy, as has been indicated, and a fresh Tornado team to dislocate the Georgia Bulldogs will trot out on Grant field.

Incidentally, it is sincerely hoped at Tech that the example set by the various eastern institutions of credulity in dismantling goal post material following a victorious game will be avoided Saturday.

Such a demonstration, as far as is known, hasn't been staged in the south's history of gridiron clashes, but the custom is rapidly coming in vogue and the Tech-Georgia affair bids fair to be just such a frenzied fete as usually incites gentlemen scholars to such ungentlemanly acts.

Easy Week Ahead. New York, November 9.—A steady downpour, plenty of mud and a slippery football game the New York university team a hard workout for the week-Elkins game. Coach Meehan intends to give his charges an easy week from now on.

Mike Sest, one of Columbia's best defensive players, was back in the lineup Tuesday and his presence had a bolstering effect on the Blue and White, which so narrowly escaped defeat by William and Mary last week.

PANIC.

Dorinda made a grimace—the raised lip and upturned nose of a street urchin—and he responded with a forgiving pat on her shoulder. Then he returned to the fire, feeling uplifted. Of course she was furious, but she deserved a little masculine discipline for an idiotic performance like that. He had been a match for her, thank heaven, and the good-humored grimace had been her acknowledgment that she deserved what she got. He was learning how to manage that young person. Not even the somewhat fussy ministrations of Miss Allen dimmed his content. She gave him a third tablet, accepted his statement that he was still too nervous to lie down, and finally reluctantly left him in the big chair before his fire on his fervent promise that he would go to bed within an hour.

The effect of the third tablet was soothing. This time he knew he had dozed, and when he sat up in response to a sudden whimper from Freckles the fire was again burning low. He decided to go to bed. But first he would quiet Freckles, who had keenly resented being taken out of Dorinda's room and put in his box at 10 o'clock and who doubtless had reawakened to a sense of his wrongs. David went to the hall and calmed the nervous puppy with a low word or two and a few head strokes. Then, on an impulse he did not stop to analyze, he went to the top of the staircase and looked down. Afterwards he told himself he must have heard the noise that awakened Freckles, or caught the reflection of light under the library door as he walked along the hall. Anyway, there was a line of light there now. Annie may have forgotten to turn off the electric current after Dorinda and the nurse went upstairs. But even as the thought came he knew better. The subconscious sense that warns us of the unusual awoke in him. He crept downstairs, approached the door with great caution, opened it without a sound, closed it with equal care and for an instant stood with his back to it, surveying the scene before him. Then he spoke.

"Well, Jim," he asked conversationally, "what's the idea?" The young man who stood before the old desk, frantically rummaging through its numerous drawers, whirled as if the words had been a physical force swinging him about. His face turned a bluish white, and though his lips moved it was clear that he could not speak. The new master of the house walked slowly toward him, holding the other's panic-stricken eyes.

"What's the idea?" he repeated. "A Raffles stunt?" "Something like it," Bryant stammered. Then, as if the other's calm proved infectious, he began to pull himself together and came forward, an apprehensive eye on the outline of his host's right hand, doubled in the pocket of the red bathrobe. It was David's pet attitude—he was always shoving his hands into the pockets of any garments that had side pockets—but he understood the anxiety of that eye. Bryant thought he had a weapon there—that he had entered the room armed. It might be well to foster the notion. Unhappily, he could have handled several Jim Bryants, but with a broken arm—

"You won't give me away, will you?" Bryant was muttering. "I haven't taken anything."

"You were going to, weren't you?" "Of course I was, if I could find it. But the damned thing's empty! It wasn't two weeks ago. I saw a big roll when Dorinda opened the desk one evening."

David nodded.

"She put that money in the bank—not knowing you would need it."

"O, drop that sort of talk, Goddard!" Bryant spoke with the passion of desperation. "I know how you're visualizing yourself in this picture," he went on. "The virtuous citizen aroused from his innocent slumbers by a marauder of the night, and ready to show how cool he is and how good at repartee before he turns the wretch over to the law. But it's not going to be that way this time."

"Isn't it?"

"No. You see, I haven't taken anything."

"Not tonight, apparently. But perhaps these little calls are habits of yours that ought to break up."

"Wrong again. I've never been here before, on an errand like this, or anywhere else, either. You can take that or leave it."

"I'll take it."

David did not know why he believed Bryant, but he did believe him. Also, incredibly, he was sorry for the man, whose whole look showed that he was up against something stark. The panic in Bryant's eyes, Goddard now realized, had nothing to do with the perils of the present situation. He had been afraid of those for a fleeting moment. It was fear of life.

"What's it all about?" he added. "Come over here and tell me." Bryant accepted the invitation—that is, he came over to the fireplace in which a few embers still glowed among the ashes and rested his elbow on the mantel, staring down at the coals. He seemed to have forgotten the hand in the pocket, for his gaze swept indifferently past it.

"It's nothing new," he said, with some return to his natural manner. "but it's new to me—I need money—and I've got to have it. You may remember that I tried to borrow some from you on the train yesterday."

"I remember. I didn't have any. I haven't any yet. I suppose," David added, "it hasn't occurred to you that you could go to work?"

The sound Bryant uttered was an unpleasant one—half a laugh, half a sob.

"O, yes, it has," he said. "I've spent the day looking for a job. Of course they all laughed at me," he added in the flat tones of utter helplessness. "I suppose they couldn't believe I was in earnest. Anyway, everyone sent me to someone else."

"Would a few dollars help?"

"They'd buy some food. We—I haven't eaten since I left you yesterday."

"Great Scott! I never dreamed you got down to that sort of thing. Come into the dining room and have a drink, while I rustle something from the ice box."

Goddard hurried into the dining room and Bryant, following him, went directly to the sideboard with which he was so familiar. He poured a drink and swallowed it.

"I'll go into the kitchen with you," he volunteered. "I guess I know more about where things are than you do."

"I'll bet you do," David agreed. "I don't know where anything is." Bryant proceeded to make good his claim of familiarity. He foraged in the ice box, found cold meat, bread and butter, and made some sandwiches. He put two oranges in his pockets and, looking about, discovered a sheet of newspaper left in the wood box for aid in fire making. In this he wrapped the sandwiches and a bottle of milk.

"I'll eat these things when I get home," he explained. "May I take some cigarettes, too?"

"Of course."

"Eat something while I run upstairs and get what little money I have," he suggested.

"Bring down a small bottle. I'd like to take home some whisky," Bryant mentioned.

State Federation and D. A. R. Executive Boards Meet Today

The club world of Georgia turns its eyes toward Atlanta today, its interest divided between federation meetings and those of patriotic organizations. The board of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs will go into executive session at 9:30 o'clock this morning at the Atlanta Woman's club, the meeting assembling one hundred of the most prominent civic and cultural leaders throughout the state. The interest of this board meeting extends to every federated club in Georgia, and touches upon religion, literature, art, parliamentary law, education, philanthropy, mothercraft, legislation, civic improvement, cooperating with every club in the state.

Departing from an established precedent, the state board of the Daughters of the American Revolution will meet in the city today instead of the home town of the state regent. The assembly has been called for 10 o'clock this morning at Habersham hall, the day's program to be featured by two elaborate social functions.

The Joseph Habersham chapter will entertain at luncheon in the hall at 10 o'clock and the board members will be honor guests at tea at Craigie house from 4 to 5 o'clock, the Atlanta chapter acting as hostess. The state board is comprised of a large number of representative women of Georgia. The D. A. R. organization is three-fold in its purpose—service to God, to country and family home. Satisfying results along educational, protective and historical lines are obtained annually through the efforts of the D. A. R. The local chapter is affiliated both with the state and national organizations.

Social honors today will be divided between out-of-town visitors, brides-elect and college fraternities.

Jean Gros' Marionettes To Appear November 18.

Many children's matinee parties are being planned for the screamingly funny puppet show which is coming to Atlanta on November 18. Jean Gros' Marionettes in the famous play by Howard R. Garis will be here at the Woman's Club auditorium under the auspices of the Fine Arts club, appearing at 3 o'clock Thursday, November 18.

"Uncle Wiggly" and his associates of the animal kingdom have been lifted bodily from the printed page and made to live and breathe before your very eyes. The play is simply packed with drama and fun and better still, there will be a 12-piece Bunny orchestra.

Adult members will be admitted on their cards. To other adults the tickets will be $1.00 and children 50c. Tickets may be purchased at Marshall's pharmacy, at Twelfth street; Phillips & Crew, and at the Woman's club. They are going like hot cakes and everyone expecting to attend should get their tickets at once. There will be no reservations.

American Home Department Will Be Tea Hostess

The department of American home will be hostess at the tea Friday afternoon, November 12, at the Atlanta Woman's club.

Place cards symbolizing the love of home will serve to distinguish the places of the distinguished guests who will include Mrs. W. C. Hudson, of West Point, Ga., state chairman for the Georgia federation of the American home department; Miss Epie Campbell, state director of the Smith-Hughes fund; T. W. Clift, director for the fund in Atlanta; Miss Lois Dowell, of the State Agricultural college; Port Land, state superintendent of education; Mrs. Oscar Palmour, fifth district president; Mrs. R. K. Rambo, president, city federation; and Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, president of the Atlanta Woman's club, and Miss Leila Bance, president Georgia Home Economics association.

The American home chairmen of the following clubs of the fifth district, which have reported to Mrs. Newton C. Wing, fifth district chairman, are invited to send in their names for the year: Mesdames W. T. Thomas, College Park Woman's club; C. C. Christian, East Point Woman's club; H. A. Allen, Hopewell club; Miss Nellie Emory, Kirkwood Civic league; Mesdames L. F. McClelland, West End Woman's club; Oscar Ragland, G. A. R. Auxiliary; Raymond O'Kelley, Woman's Civic Club of West End.

Signifying the close relationship between the department and the schools will be the invitation extended to the home economics teachers: Bass Junior High, Miss Sue Matthews; Joe Brown, Miss Elsie Davis; O'Keefe, Miss Mary Doyle Fincher; Hoke Smith, Miss Emily Roberts; Girls' High, Miss Mary Nick Smith; Commercial High, Miss Maude Green; Fulton High, Miss Mary Brooks; Mrs. Sara Hardy Mann, and the teachers of the department's Smith-Hughes classes, Miss Lillian Williamson, and Mrs. C. J. Hollingsworth.

Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, club president, and Mrs. Wing, chairman have extended a special invitation to those who assisted in making the recent better homes exhibit at the pure food show such a success. President J. H. Merritt, of the Retail Food Dealers association, and Mrs. Merritt, Ray Bergen, state and city secretary of the food dealers, and Mrs. Bergen; T. C. Dickson, state and city chairman for the retail furniture dealers, who represented the Myers-Miller company, supplying furniture for the better homes bungalow, and Alfred Myers, Jr.; D. F. Duke, advertising manager Sears, Roebuck, who furnished other facilities for the demonstration, and Mrs. Duke.

The members of the American home department of the club are Mrs. Newton C. Wing, department chairman; the chairmen of the four divisions, Mesdames R. I. Reed, home economics teaching; Mrs. Farmer, home demonstration; E. H. Helbig, home finance, and Miss Clara Lee Cone, home making; Mesdames Murray Howard, secretary; Arthur Hazard, treasurer; P. C. Fabel, telephone chairman; John A. Perdue, auto chairman; De Los Hill, music; Fort E. Land, hospitality; P. E. Harvey, publicity; Charles C. Harding, cookbook chairman. Since the membership of the department is one of the largest and most enthusiastic in the club, a large representation is expected Friday of club members and their guests. The music will be in charge of Mrs. Fred Castator, well known clubwoman, who will have her own popular composition, "Autumn Moon," sung by Miss Elsie Wall. The floral decorations Friday will be in the hands of Mrs. G. H. Brannan.

Club members desiring reservations are asked to notify Mrs. Simmons, club hostess, as soon as possible, Henlock 0225.

Maj. and Mrs. McCollum To Be Given Shower.

Mrs. Charles T. Yates will be hostess Thursday evening from 8 to 10 o'clock at her home, 318 North Moreland avenue, at a linen shower in compliment to Major and Mrs. Arthur McCollum. Twenty guests have been invited for the occasion.

McLendon W. C. T. U. To Meet Thursday.

The Mary Latimer McLendon W. C. T. U., will meet Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Katie Lee Reeves, 306 MacKenzie drive. Mrs. J. S. Strickland will lead the devotional, Mrs. George Sims will sing "Hats Off to the Flag." Report from the national convention will be given by Mrs. Lella Dillard. Reading "The Early Crusade," will be given by Miss Loretta Garner. Reports from the state convention will be given by Mrs. W. H. Preston, Miss Evelyn Flury, Mrs. S. G. Hunter and Mrs. Amelia Woodall.

ALREADY CREAMY

A smooth rich evenness of sugar and shortening is the beginning of all wisdom in the art of cake-making. For this reason you'll appreciate Snowdrift as a shortening. It's already so creamy that you have to do very little crushing, beating and other culinary manoeuvring to make a velvety-smooth mixture.

Whiten Skin New Safe Way—Free If Not Satisfied

This remarkable new discovery will positively clear and whiten your skin almost overnight. And unless you are amazed and delighted with the result it will cost you absolutely nothing—you money will be gladly refunded. Sallow, mottled, sun, freckles, redness, roughness, pimples and blackheads all vanish. Make this test tonight. Right before bed time smooth some of this cool, fragrant cream on your skin. Tomorrow morning notice how mottledness and sallowness have already started to give way. Ask your dealer for a jar of Golden Peacock Bleach Creme (concentrated)—the amazing new and harmless discovery of science. dinner dance at Druid Hills club on Friday evening must be made by noon on Thursday. Tickets may be had and reservations made at B. B. Baker's, 1000 Peachtree street or at Shrine headquarters. The dinner dance, which will be strictly formal and for Shriners and their ladies only, will begin at 7:30. Good music will be provided and the dance committee has arranged for a number of special entertainment features. All members of Yarab Temple are invited to be present and sojourning nobles are cordially invited.

Book Week Program At Children's Matinee.

Atlanta children will enjoy an elaborate program when National Book week will be celebrated by the matinee committee of the better films organization by a special program Saturday morning at the Howard theater for young people of all ages.

The fifth grade teachers of Atlanta schools will be the guests of the committee at this time, since the play presented is the story of "The Man Without a Country," which is studied in this grade. Superintendent Willis A. Sutton, H. Reid Hunter and Miss Mary Postell and E. R. Knowl, head of the visual education department will be issued cards of invitation. The film is called "As No Man Has Loved," and follows the author's masterpiece very closely, being one of the strongest sermons on patriotism ever preached to those of all ages. In planning the program for book week Mrs. Newton C. Wines, matinee chairman, has been assisted by Mrs. George Price, chairman of children's reading for the Atlanta P.-T. A.

Appealing to the little ones will be a "Mother Goose" film, in which all the characters take part, and which represents "book week," since this is the book of the earliest appeal. Mrs. Charles C. Harding, prolog chairman, has prepared one of the most elaborate programs ever given, depicting the fascinating characters of "Fairland" stepping out from the covers of story books. While James Coots, popular Forsyth stock leading man, sings a slumber song, the little girl dreams she sees Goldie Locks, Little Miss Muffet, Hansel and Gretel, Snow White, Pied Piper, Peter Pan and Little Red Riding Hood step from their story books.

Mrs. John G. Courtney, chaplain chairman, will have a large assisting committee. Admission is 10 and 20 cents.

Junior Music Club Meets.

The Atlanta Junior Music club met Saturday at Edico hall. Announcement was made of the radio program to be given November 11 by the club members, varying in age from 4 to 20 years. Announcement was also made of a Christmas party. Madame de la Fuente and Mrs. Spiker were chairmen and gave an interesting costume program of the "Minuet," beginning with Mozart and ending with a beautiful composition by Bachmaninoff. Mozart seldom appeared in public without his little sister and the club had the pleasure of seeing the sister represented in costume by Helen Roberts. The trio composed of James de la Fuente, violin; Erwin Morgan, cello, and Jane Tway, piano, played the minuet of Beethoven, Paderewski and Boccherini for the dancers.

The children on the program were: Frances Collier, Nell Freeman, Beverly Rogers, Peggy Furlong, Rozana Cotsakis, Lily Furlong, Dorothy Dent, Frances Austin, Charlotte Chapman, Ida Nevin, Mary Barge, Dorothy Wining, Penelope Brown, Alice Gayle, Anne Bartlett.

The next club meeting will be November 20. Miss Florence Watson, chairman, assisted by violin pupils of Mrs. M. E. Patterson.

Miss Hodgson Is Signally Honored At Mount Holyoke

As president of the sophomore class of Mount Holyoke college at South Hadley, Mass., Miss Martha E. Hodgson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Fred G. Hodgson, of Wildwoods, Clifton road, last Saturday accepted the banner given each year to the winner of field day, and led her classmates in a snake dance around the campus. Field day, which came as a windup for the outdoor sports season, was distinctly a success for the sophomores. At noon the sophomores were hostesses at a picnic luncheon for the freshmen. Miss Hodgson, representing the sophomores, addressed the gathering and urged the two classes to have a better interclass feeling than is generally prevalent between odd and even classes. The day came to a climax with a banquet, to which all members of teams were invited. Here letters were awarded and the coveted banner presented, this year to the second-year class. Ever since her entrance last year Miss Hodgson has been prominent in student activities. She prepared for college at the Baldwin school, in Bryn Mawr, Pa., and received the southern scholarship for getting the highest entrance marks of any girl from the south. Last year she was vice president of her class and a member of the representative council of the college, which makes the rules. She gained a great literary honor last spring when she was awarded the Sigma Theta Chi poetry prize, given each year for the best undergraduate poetry. Miss Hodgson also achieved the signal distinction of being elected as one of two sophomore members who were given places on the literary board of the Mount Holyoke Monthly, the literary magazine of the college. She also was successful in athletics, being star goal on the hockey team.

This year Miss Hodgson is president of the sophomore class. As well as continuing with her work in connection with the monthly, she has been busy in dramatics. Elected as one of four sophomore members in the college dramatic club, she has already appeared in the cast of Floyd Dell's "Sweet and Twenty" in the role of the agent, and is almost a certainty for a part in the December play of the club, which will be "The Swan," the play in which Eva LaGallienne starred.

Miss Jennie C. Hodgson, sister of Miss Martha Hodgson, entered the freshman class this year. Like her sister she prepared at the Baldwin school and has traveled extensively abroad. She also received the southern scholarship for receiving the best entrance marks this year.

Pre-School Mothers To Meet Thursday.

The pre-school mothers of Highland school will meet Thursday morning, November 11, at 10 o'clock at the home of Mrs. A. E. McCann, 1327 Fairview road. This is an interesting educational project and all mothers having children of pre-school age should be interested and are urged to come to this meeting.

Georgia University Adds New Professor To Teach Economics

Athens, Ga., November 9.—(Special.)—C. M. Strong, formerly of the faculties of the University of Washington and of the Cuban branch of the Boston university, is announced by Chancellor Charles M. Snelling as a new associate professor of economics in the University of Georgia. Professor Strong will succeed Professor W. H. Stauffer, who has resigned his position at the University of Georgia to return to the University of Virginia, where he will continue research work already begun there. Professor Strong will assume his duties at the Georgia institution with the beginning of the second term in January.

LOCAL CREDIT MEN IN DEBATE TUESDAY

"Is Installment Selling Being Overdone?" was the subject of a debate at a joint dinner of the Atlanta Association of Credit Men and the Retail Credit Men's association, held Tuesday night at 8:30 o'clock at the Atlanta Athletic club. The affirmative side, represented by T. B. Everett, of Ivan Allen-Marshall company, and D. T. Davis, of Graybar Electric company, won the judges' decision. The negative side was represented by Ed Steimle, of the Popular Finance corporation, and George O. Jones, of the (His Elevator) company. Judges were T. G. Woolford, P. B. Ramey and A. B. Madison. J. H. Sutton, president of the Association of Credit Men, presided.

MRS. SUSAN C. FRASER FUNERAL WEDNESDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Susan Cozart Fraser, pioneer Atlanta woman, who died Tuesday morning at the residence, 993 Cleburn avenue, will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence. The Rev. Richard Orme Elian, pastor of the North Avenue Presbyterian church, will officiate and interment will be in Oakland cemetery. Pallbearers will be Hugh H. Trotter, Paul C. Smith, Louis C. Harrison, H. G. Bass, A. H. Wilson and J. E. Pritchett. A native of Atlanta, Mrs. Fraser has lived here all of her life and has a host of friends throughout the city. She is survived by three daughters, Miss Mary Fraser, Mrs. W. H. LaPrade, Jr., of LaGrange, Ga., and Mrs. Rembert G. Smith, of Augusta, Ga., and one son, Wallace J. Fraser.

Would You Like to Be Attractive?
A beautiful woman is always admired. There are many types of beauty. But no woman can be truly beautiful unless she is healthy. Radiant vitality is always attractive, however plain a woman's features may be. Many a woman has found her health improved through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This remedy has been taken by women for more than half a century with very satisfactory results. If Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped other women, why shouldn't it help you?—(adv.)

"The Store all Women Know"

Tremendous Early Season Clearance--- About 400 Fall Dresses Reduced!

An event that means something to every woman who loves beauty and smartness, who appreciates savings... and what woman doesn't! Four hundred dresses from Allen's regular stocks go on sale today! Dresses recently bought for fall and winter. Dresses hand picked for Allen's regular stocks. Winter dresses... and the whole winter is before us... think of it! We aren't mentioning comparative prices, Allen's seldom does, but everybody in Atlanta knows what Allen's reduction sales are. There are no half measures. Every dress in the sale is marked at a substantial reduction!

$ 11.00

A surprising lot of dresses to find at $11, even though you know they've been deeply reduced. The materials in them are lovely, the styles smart. And they're practical little frocks for the most part, frocks that a woman can wear anywhere with a knowledge of being well dressed. There are flat crepes, satin crepes, Georgettes and Georgettes with velvet trimming. Navy blue, red, green, meadow, Burgundy and black are the colors.

$ 15.00

What sort of dress do you seek? Something for sports? A business frock? A shopping dress? Or something for dress up wear? They're all here, even a collection of dainty little high colored Georgette dancing frocks. How you'll love them! And there are Georgettes trimmed with velvet and plain Georgettes, and crepe de chimes and flat crepes. One piece dresses, two piece dresses... too many styles for description... all much better than $15 dresses.

$ 33.00

Lovely, lovely dresses that have stepped down very much indeed, so far as price is concerned. Look at the styling of them... that incomparable little flower perched so jauntily on the shoulder of this one, a rhinestone ornament on that one so fine it looks like a piece of jewelry... by little touches like these you can see their quality.

$ 21.00

Here's an adorable little velveteen frock with a quaint basque... the very modern young woman will enjoy that! Then there are crepe dresses in high grades... these are very new and smart. And there are cute little sports frocks in two-piece styles, clever frocks with plaid silk tops over pleated plain colored crepe skirts, velveteen dresses with metal brocaded collars and cuffs, pretty Georgettes with velvet trimming... and we could go on and on.

$ 26.00

Vionnet sleeves, velvet basques, two-piece sports frocks with velvet tops, afternoon models, street dresses... what will you have? They're all here assembled for you to choose from. All made of beautiful silks in smart new styles in the season's best colors. They're the frocks you'll be seeing in well dressed gatherings from now until spring. Why not choose one or two of them today when selection is so good and price so very little?

$ 43.00

Evening dresses of velvet, afternoon dresses of Georgette or gleaming satin, street frocks of dull crepe with wonderful chic... some buttoning high at the neck... oh, they're dresses with an air of their own, these are, dresses that discriminating women know how to appreciate. All new colors, all the best materials!

Thanksgiving Coats

Sketched

(Left)—A stunning note is struck by the Queen Anne Collar of Jap Mink on this wrap of spice brown needle-point. Collar merges into full length reverse, $98.50.

(Right)—Blouse back coat of dove grey velveta, collared with platinum wolf. A wrap of excellent, though inconspicuous, good taste, $59.50.

Dress Coats $49.50 to $198.50

"Never have we been able to present so distinctive a collection of Coats at such remarkably conservative prices, as this season!"—is the consensus of opinion. Our buyers are confident of it—and are justly thankful for such a laudable state of affairs. Our patrons enthusiastically assure us of it—they are unerringly style-right, as well as price-right, we are told. Which gives cause for a general Thanksgiving!

The day for Thanksgiving is near—meaning the glorious finale of the football season—dances—parties for visitors—exciting events which follow in quick succession. And here are slim, youthful coats to actively participate. Coats of the new soft suede-finish fabrics—smartened by luxurious collars and cuffs of flattering furs—in the fashionable new blues, tans, greys and black. All with the emphasis on youthful lines—with the added spice of sophistication.

MEN WHO MADE THE WORLD

THE MORNING THAT FOLLOWED THE SORROWFUL NIGHT FOUND THE SPANISH REMNANTS OF THE ONCE POWERFUL SPANISH-TLASCALAN FORCE AT TACUBA, SO BROKEN AND EXHAUSTED WERE THEY THAT NOT EVEN IN DEFENSE OF THEIR LIVES DID THEY SEEM ABLE TO RAISE A HAND. THE SPANISH ARTILLERY NO LONGER EXISTED, ONLY A FEW MUSKETS HAD BEEN SAVED AND THE TERRIFIC LOSSES ON THE SORROWFUL NIGHT WILL NEVER BE KNOWN. CORTES WEPT AS HE SAW THE SHABBY REMNANTS OF HIS ARMY ISSUED BEFORE HIM.

IF THE MEXICANS HAD FOLLOWED UP THEIR ADVANTAGE PROMPTLY, NO SPANIARDS WOULD HAVE SURVIVED. AFTER A DAY'S REST CORTES, MINDFUL OF THEIR EXTREME PERIL, STARTED TOWARD THE FRIENDLY CITY OF TLASCALA. FOR SIX DAYS THE SPANIARDS MARCHED WITHOUT ENCOUNTERING ANY CONSIDERABLE NUMBER OF ENEMY. BUT ON THE SEVENTH MORNING IN THE VALLEY OF OTUMBA THEY BEHELD TO THEIR DISMAY A VAST BODY OF TROOPS PREPARED TO DISPUTE THEIR PASSAGE. CUTLHAUTZIN HAD SENT THIS FORCE TO INTERCEPT THE SPANISH RETREAT.

CORTES QUICKLY PUT HIS WEARY MEN IN BATTLE ORDER WITH THE WOUNDED IN THE CENTER OF THE HOLLOW SQUARE. THEN FROM ALL SIDES HORDES OF AZTEC WARRIORS RUSHED UPON THE WEARY SPANIARDS AND THEIR TLASCALAN ALLIES. FOR SEVERAL HOURS THE BATTLE RAGED, BOTH SIDES FIGHTING MADLY. TOWARD THE MIDDLE OF THE DAY THE SPANIARDS WERE SO DISORGANIZED THEY BEGAN TO GIVE WAY. THE AZTEC COMMANDER HAD BEEN CARRIED BY HIS NOBLES IN A LITTER TO A HILLOCK FROM WHERE HE COULD DIRECT HIS TROOPS. THERE FLOATED HIS BATTLE STANDARD. THIS GAVE THE RESOURCEFUL CORTES AN IDEA. HE REMEMBERED THAT THE DEATH OF THE COMMANDER OR THE CAPTURE OF HIS STANDARD WERE SIGNALS AMONG THE MEXICANS FOR RETREAT. WITH SIX OF HIS ABLEST CAPTAINS ON HORSES, CORTES LED A DIRECT CHARGE AT THE AZTEC COMMANDER AND SUCCEEDED IN FORCING A PASSAGE THROUGH THE MASSES OF STRUGGLING WARRIORS. IN AN INSTANT THE LITTER WAS OVERTHROWN. CAPTAIN SALAMANCA SLEW THE PROSTRATE COMMANDER. SEIZED THE STANDARD AND CORTES RAISED IT WITH CRIES OF VICTORY. THE EFFECT WAS IMMEDIATE. THE MEXICANS, STRICKEN WITH PANIC, FLED. (TO BE CONT'D)

Temporary bond for Robert Earl Etheridge, charged with violation of the national motor vehicle theft act by transporting an alleged stolen automobile from Florida to Georgia, Tuesday was fixed at $500 by United States Commissioner Ledbetter pending a preliminary hearing of the charge on Thursday.

PUNCH BOARD DRIVE
ORDERED BY CHIEF

A concerted drive upon punch boards said to be operated in large numbers throughout Atlanta Tuesday was ordered by Chief of Police James L. Beavers upon an appeal from the Retail Merchants' association, complaining that the boards of chance provide unfair competition to legitimate business.

Policemen were instructed to seize all punch boards, destroy the boards and arrest the operators. There is both a city and a state law prohibiting punch boards, Chief Beavers stated.

BRITISH CONSUL
ADDRESSES LIONS

S. E. Kay, British consul to Atlanta, was the principal speaker at the regular Tuesday luncheon of the Lions' club, held at 12:30 o'clock in the Ansley hotel. He spoke on the relation between the United States and Great Britain as seen by a consul.

Another feature on the program Tuesday was a talk by R. E. Wager, superintendent of department of education at Emory university, who is delivering a series of addresses in interest of the equalization of educational opportunities in Georgia. As a result of his talk the Lions' club passed a resolution to urge the press, legislature and state department of education to aid in equalizing educational opportunities that now place sparsely settled counties at a disadvantage.

Music by Paul Hubbard, pianist, and Paul Crutchfield, vocalist, furnished entertainment at the meeting, presided over by Joseph B. Wolfe, president of the club.

Passie Fenton Ottley Fund
Is Nearing $30,000 Mark

The announcement that the Passie Fenton Ottley Endowment fund for Tallulah Falls school has reached the sum of $29,158.30 before its first presentation to the board of school trustees was the outstanding and encouraging feature of the meeting of the Tallulah Industrial school trustees meeting held at the Woman's club Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Bolling Jones, chairman of memorials, service tributes, and name gifts, made the formal announcement of the endowment fund which is named for Mrs. John K. Ottley, of Atlanta, president of the board, who presided at the meeting. She stated that this amount was not to be considered as a close of the fund, but as a beginning, this being

SYSTEM POISONED BY SPELLS OF CONSTIPATION

Speaking about her experience with Theford's Black-Draught, Mrs. Thos. L. Nash, of Vincennes, Ind., says: "My general health has grown much better since I began taking Black-Draught. For many years I was troubled with spells of constipation. When one of these would come on me, I could not sleep well at night. My rest was disturbed, and I often had a dull, aching feeling which would last for days."

"My appetite was poor, and nothing to eat tempted me. I often suffered from gas pains. My system would get so thoroughly poisoned, that I was miserable."

"Someone recommended Black-Draught to me, and I began to take it. I soon found that it was what I needed for my trouble. A small pinch taken after meals, with a glass of water, soon got rid of the cause of my suffering."

"After I had thoroughly cleansed my system of this toxic condition, I felt better than I had in years. I slept well, and my appetite returned. Now I keep Black-Draught in the home, and a dose, now and then, prevents any return of the trouble."

"Constipation comes on quickly, and is hard to control. I have found that I have little trouble that way, when I use Black-Draught judiciously."

"I have recommended Black-Draught often to my friends, because I have found it such a helpful medicine. I am more than pleased with the results from it."

Fashions Sketched by Kay

Pajamas for the hours of ease, and a matching negligee; this was a man's thought as he selected his wife's Christmas present at Muse's yesterday morning. A wise man is he for he must know how we all love to be lazy. And such a lovely gift for Christmas that I am passing the thought on to you. So I sketched pajamas of black crepe satin captingly applied with painted velvet tulips of most gorgeous hue, and these same tulips in orange, blue, purple and crimson later jauntily up the side of the negligee with most brilliantly fascinating long green steamers trailing after them.

District Presidents.

The report of the secretary, Mrs. Price Gilbert, and the treasurer, Mrs. B. Price-Smith, were received.

Reports from the district president of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs on the matter of maintenance for the enlarged plant of the Greater Tallulah were received.

The trustees again expressed by motion their conviction that the attention of the clubs of Georgia federation should be very earnestly centered upon providing adequate support for their new plant, which now includes nine units, instead of two in 1925.

The period of the dinner was devoted to a report from Mrs. Bolling Jones, chairman of memorials, service tributes and name gifts.

Mrs. Richard P. Brooks, of Forsyth, donor of the Dossie Head Brooks scholarship, was presented, as was Mrs. F. E. Brownell, donor of the Florence H. Brownell perpetual.

Mrs. Oscar Palmour and Mrs. B. D. Gray, of College Park Woman's club, were presented.

Mrs. H. M. Nicholas, Mrs. Arthur Hazzard and Mrs. James H. Bachman, co-chairmen with Mrs. Stevens in her work, were presented.

Mrs. William C. Patterson, whose publicity for the endowment has been so notable, and Mrs. Eugene Harrington, who had been in charge of the great fashion review of M. Rich & Bros. Co., and Mrs. Green Dodd Warren, in charge of Washington seminar societies' dance, were also presented.

Mrs. Robert K. Rambo, president of the Atlanta federation, both expressed their pleasure in having worked for the endowment fund, and Mrs. J. W. Gholston, president of the eighth district.

Mrs. J. B. McGarity, of the seventh; Mrs. Henry M. Bird, of the fourth; and Mrs. J. E. McElroy, of the ninth, and others spoke with enthusiasm of the endowment fund, both of its need to the school and of fitting tribute to the head of the board of trustees, Mrs. Lamar Rucker and Mrs. John F. MacDougall, donors of the Nellie Peters Black perpetual scholarship, were presented.

The occasion was distinguished by the presence of the president and two vice presidents of Georgia federation, Mrs. A. P. Brantley, Mrs. A. H. Brenner and Mrs. S. V. Sanford, all of whom spoke in response to introductions.

School Trustees.

Dinner was served at 6 o'clock, a few special guests being present on this occasion. The trustees of the school are Mrs. A. P. Brantley, Blackshear; Mrs. S. B. C. Morgan, Savannah; Mrs. J. K. Ottley, Atlanta; Mrs. Price Gilbert, Atlanta; Mrs. T. T. Stevens, Atlanta; Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, Atlanta; Miss Rose Woodberry, Atlanta; Miss Sarah Moss, Athens; Mrs. Frank Lipscomb, Athens; Mrs. A. Philobosian Offers
Big Saving On Home Furnishings

Now that Thanksgiving is almost upon us, everyone is interested in getting their homes in order for coming guests.

It is on such occasions that we realize the need of additional furniture and furnishings. Maybe a new dining room set, a bedroom suite, new rugs or draperies. Every woman is interested in seeing her home look beautiful for visitors.

Stephen Philobosian, Inc., offers an extraordinary opportunity to prospective buyers of home furnishings, not only because of the tremendous stock, the great variety from which to make selection, but because of the decidedly lower prices.

The policy of selling only for cash is of tremendous importance to the public. It means that the great saving effected by this policy is passed along to the public in lower prices; it means that really distinctive furniture, the kind every woman loves for her home, is available at prices well within reach of the popular purse.

Anyone contemplating the purchase of furniture, rugs or draperies should visit this beautiful store at 881 Peachtree and see for themselves the big difference in values offered by the store that sells only for cash.—(adv.)

U. S. DISTRICT COURT
WILL MOVE TO ROME

United States district court will adjourn this week-end to Rome, where the criminal and civil calendar will be taken up Monday. On November 22, Judge Samuel H. PORTRAIT ARTISTS
GO OUT ON STRIKE

Boston, November 9.—What is believed to be the first strike of portrait artists in the history of New England was under way here Tuesday after five artists were ordered out on strike by the Commercial Portrait Artists' Union of Boston.

According to officials of the union, these artists were not paid for extra portraits of the same subject. They pointed out that customers often ask for one or more copies of the same picture and that the employers and not the artists are paid for these.

Will Be Featured
By Novel Program

An interesting program will feature the dinner-dance at which the Arizona post of the American Legion will entertain at the Billmore hotel Thursday evening from 7 to 1 o'clock, the occasion to celebrate Armistice day. During the dinner courses a Hawaiian quartet will render several selections. Mrs. Billingsley and Mrs. Lamar Reaves, well-known singers, will entertain the guests during the evening. A number of surprise dances will be introduced and other cabaret stunts will be delightful features. Army songs by the assembled guests led by Sergeant Cranston, of the marines; Sergeant Ryan, of the army, and Ed Anchors, of the American Legion, will be an added feature of the event. "A Day in Camp" will be a familiar scene enacted by a number of soldiers in uniform and will furnish much merriment for the occasion. Emory Bass, of Valdosta, state commander of the legion, will be introduced and will be the speaker of the evening.

Seated at the speaker's table will be Commander Bass, Joseph Carr, of Rome, state adjutant; Frank B. Saunders, commander of Argonne post No. 1; Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, president of the legion auxiliary; Mrs. Asa Warren Chandler, first vice president of the auxiliary; Mrs. Frank B. Saunders, second vice president of the auxiliary; Asa Warren Chandler, state executive committee member. Fuzzy Woodruff will act as toastmaster.

The affair will be informal and the cover charge, including dinner and dancing, will be $2.50 per person. The attendance is not limited to membership of the legion and a cordial invitation is extended to their friends and all out-of-town legionnaires. Reservations can be made at the legion headquarters, 224 Palmer building. Reservations must be made by 6 o'clock Wednesday evening and those desiring to make up parties of six or more can do so by phoning legion headquarters.

Pyorrhea's victims
are 4 out of 5

A ruthless enemy that gives no quarter is Pyorrhea. Its poisons sweep through the system, undermining health and often causing such serious diseases as rheumatism and neuritis, appendicitis, ulcers, stomach troubles and nervousness.

Four out of five past 40, and thousands younger, pay this heavy toll. But you need not fear these uneven odds.

Go to your dentist at least twice a year. And start using Forhan's for the gums, today. This dentifrice, the formula of R. J. Forhan, D.D.S., prevents Pyorrhea or checks its course.

It keeps gum tissue firm and healthy. It protects teeth against acids which decay and keeps them white. Use Forhan's regularly, morning and night. Teach your children this good habit.

Forhan's contains Forhan's Pyorrhea Liquid used by dentists everywhere. It is health-insurance. At all drug-gists—in tubes, 35c and 60c.

No tell-tale Odor

Forhan's Antiseptic, a new product, most powerful, safe antiseptic mouthwash known, is odorless. It keeps you safe from whispering tongues. Pleasant, refreshing. Try it and you'll always use it.

A Baby in the Home

NO KING on his golden throne demands and receives more homage from his willing subjects than a baby in the home. The smallest member of the family requires a great deal of attention. Sometimes, in caring for her child, a mother overtaxes her own strength. Particularly when there are other children to work for, she must learn to preserve her health. Then her home becomes a place of order and happiness. She finds time to play with her children and the whole family enjoys the dimpled baby as he grows from day to day. Many young mothers have learned that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps them to find the strength they need.

Before her marriage, Mrs. R. N. FRANKUM of 3947 Gold St., Omaha, Neb., was a working girl. Like many girls, she sometimes had to stay at home from her work. A friend told her of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she found that it relieved her trouble.

She was in good health until her second baby came. "I began to take the Vegetable Compound again," she writes, "and was soon able to do my housework. Now I can say I never felt better in my life. Women ask me what I have been doing and I tell them about your medicine. I feel that I owe a lot to it."

Miss Jane Dorrough Weds Mr. Martin, of Omaha, Neb.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Thomas Dorrough have issued cards announcing the marriage of their daughter, Jane, to Edward Morris Martin, of Omaha, Neb., the ceremony taking place Tuesday, November 9, at high noon at the First Presbyterian church in Chicago, Ill. The ceremony was quietly solemnized and witnessed by a small group of close friends and relatives. Miss Mary Hill, of Chicago, was the only attendant and she wore a striking costume of navy blue crepe with hat to match. Her shoulder bouquet was of orchids and valley lilies. The bride was dressed in tan colored crepe fashioned coat effect and her hat was a small model in tan felt. She wore a corsage bouquet of orchids and valley lilies. Mr. Martin and his bride will spend two weeks at the Edgewater Beach hotel in Chicago, going later to "Fair Acres," the country home of Mr. Martin, near Omaha. In the early

LOCUST GROVE GETS SECOND BIG FUND

Locust Grove, Ga., November 9.—(Special.)—Dr. Claude Gray, president of Locust Grove Institute, announces as the second donation to the campaign recently launched to endow and equip the school as a junior college, a gift of $5,000 from Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Gardner, of Locust Grove, this gift to serve as a memorial to their little son, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Drewry, of Locust Grove, made the first donation of a like amount as a memorial to their daughter.

The local community, following a mass meeting of citizens held recently to formulate plans to raise Locust Grove Institute to the rank of junior college, will take the lead in raising a fund sufficient to secure for the school recognition as the Baptist junior college for middle and north Georgia.

CHI PHI FIFTH ZONE MEET OPENS FRIDAY

Judge Peter W. Meldrum, of Savannah, well-known throughout the state in educational circles, founder of the Eta chapter and father of the Chi Phi fraternity in Georgia, will be honor guest at a conference of the fifth zone of the Chi Phi fraternity to be held here November 12 and 13. It was announced by Thomas W. Connally, president of the association. Hal Fuller, of Boston, Mass., national head of the fraternity, and Benjamin Russell, of Alexandria, City, Ala., founder of the Tau chapter, will be among the honor guests at a banquet to be held Friday night.

FOR CO-EDUCATIONAL SCHOOLS AS ECONOMY

Dr. R. M. Eubanks, president of the Atlanta board of education, Tuesday afternoon favored the conversion of the Henry W. Grady school for boys and the Mallon high school for girls into co-educational institutions by next year, as an economy move, and stated that strictest economy must be practiced in the system next year. Claiming that the step would be one of the greatest single steps taken in the interest of economy and convenience of patrons, Dr. Eubanks stated that the idea of separating boys and girls in the same building was very clear and that the conversion of the two schools into co-educational institutions would be a great relief to the city. "I believe it would save the city a minimum of $250,000 annually," he said.

NEW TRIAL DENIED POLICEMAN WILBANKS

The court of appeals Tuesday denied a new trial sought by former City Policeman W. C. Wilbanks, convicted in Fulton superior court on a manslaughter charge in connection with the killing of his wife in December, 1925. The court ruled that the trial court had not erred in certain rulings made during the trial. Wilbanks was convicted of voluntary manslaughter and was sentenced to serve not less than 10 years and not more than 15 years in the state penitentiary.

Five Atlanta Banks Organize $12,000,000 Pool of Finance Withdrawal of State Cotton Syndicate Prepared To Advance Farmers 8 Cents Per Pound on Staple Immediately.

Through action of five Atlanta banks Tuesday, $12,000,000 will be made available immediately to finance the surplus cotton crop and to withdraw from the market 300,000 bales of Georgia cotton. This movement is a part of a plan which contemplates withdrawal of 4,000,000 bales of cotton in the entire cotton belt. The cotton will be handled by the Georgia Cotton Growers' Cooperative association.

Banks participating in the financing of the withdrawal of this cotton are the Atlanta and Lowry National, Fulton National, Atlanta Trust company, Citizens and Southern and the Fourth National banks. Although these banks have underwritten the financing plan without calling on any government banking agency, it is expected that they will have the cooperation in the move of other banks in Georgia.

It was announced that this banking syndicate was prepared to advance to growers immediately 8 cents a pound on their cotton. The cotton then will be withdrawn from the market under plans adopted at a conference recently held in Memphis. In Georgia the cooperative marketing association will handle the marketing of all cotton withdrawn under this plan.

Details of the plan to finance withdrawal of the cotton were announced Tuesday by James S. Floyd, who was named recently as chairman of a special committee to formulate a definite plan of financing the surplus crop. The plan will have the backing of the Georgia Bankers' association and other banking interests of the state. Ample resources to finance the plan were found in the present system of banks in Georgia without the necessity of calling on any governmental agencies for aid, it was announced.

Among those who served on the committee with Mr. Floyd were John M. Graham, Rome; Charles B. Lewis, Macon; W. B. Spann, of the Citizens and Southern bank; Robert R. Strickland, Fourth National bank; Eugene R. Black, Atlanta Trust company, and W. J. Blacklock, Fulton National bank. This committee will act as an advisory committee with the cooperative association in marketing and handling the cotton.

It was announced that the syndicate will cooperate with similar movements in other states of the cotton belt in seeing that the cotton is marketed in orderly fashion and in handling and storing the cotton during

$3,000 GEM LOSS REPORTED TUESDAY

Loss of diamonds valued at approximately $3,000 Tuesday was reported by Mrs. A. B. Gode, of 142 East 17th street, according to police. Detectives Warren and Davis were assigned to investigate the loss, the owner believing them to have been stolen. The most valuable of the three pieces is a diamond brooch said to be worth $2,400. The brooch has a large diamond in the center, with a setting of 62 smaller stones, around the sides of the center stone. The other two articles are rings, one a diamond, platinum and sapphire ring, valued at $400, and the other a diamond wedding ring worth $100. Sam Kinney reported Tuesday to police that his pocket had been picked of a pocketbook containing $75.

J. P. ALLEN'S. The children's department, fourth floor, is the very place young mothers and expectant mothers have been looking for. The daintiest, prettiest, "Vlooming Wardrobes" are here. One of the thirty pieces for $15.00 is listed below: 2 Shirts, 1 Rubber Sheet, 2 Gowns, hand-made; 2 Dresses, hand-made; 2 Bundles, 1 Quilted Pad, 2 Gertrudes, hand-made; 1 Rubber Pants, 12 Diapers, 24x24; 2 Kimonos, 1 Blanket, 2 Booties. Also all kinds of dainty and useful gifts from rattlers and teething rings to the daintiest Basins, and all other pieces of nursery furniture can be found here. Even an old bachelor would want to adopt a baby to buy these dainty things for. Pay this department a visit and let Betty with many years of experience, show you through.

THE SPECIALTY SHOP Now that winter is here we still have a good selection of Velveteen hats in our exclusive Blue Chain models and other patterns. Prices cut one-half. Also high-grade velveteen and felt hats at reduced prices. The new metal, satin and silk hats in a wide assortment of styles and colors. Room 122 Peachtree Arcade.

BUCHANAN'S Designers for the Individual. The Charm of a Handmade Creation Is Irresistible. Quality Since 1899. "17 Years at the Same Location."

CINDERELLA CHILDREN'S SHOPPE. 116-118 Peachtree Arcade. Jersey pantie leggings, colors, buff, blue, 2 to 6 years. Boys' leather knee length leggings. 2 to 8 years.

Christmas Cards—postcard size and booklets; appropriate sentiments hand lettered or engraved; small novelty size and regular club size; renew old friendships.

How much of this waste are YOU taxed for?

THIS year American motorists will pay over $420,000,000 to correct the damage done by carbon. How much of this national waste are you taxed for? What is your share of this unnecessary expense? Willys-Knight owners are singularly free from this motoring evil. With no valves to grind... no carbon to remove... their upkeep cost is cut practically in half. And thousands of miles of trouble-free service are added to the life of their cars.

And now—Belflex Shackles—still another new and exclusive Willys-Knight Great Six feature—a tremendous engineering advance over the unsatisfactory and noisy metal shackle of other cars. Belflex guards against all chassis rattles and squeaks. It deadens road vibration, eliminates all need for shackle lubrication... Belflex provides that the sprung parts of the car are insulated from the unsprung parts with noiseless, flexible fabric—shock-absorbing, rubberized—thereby affording permanent chassis silence and diminishing wear at every point of the car.

Willys-Knight Great Six prices from $1750 to $2295. New "70" Willys-Knight Six, companion car to the Willys-Knight Great Six, from $1295 to $1525. Prices f. o. b. factory and specifications subject to change without notice... The Willys Finance Plan offers unusually attractive credit terms... Willys-Overland, Inc., Toledo, Ohio; Willys-Overland Sales Co., Ltd., Toronto, Canada.
